MacArthur To Address Congress Thursday 2 Men Drown In Choppy Waters Of Lake Wallenpaupack

Waves There Highest Ever Experienced

Wallenpaupack (AP) — Two men were believed drowned yesterday in the choppy waters of Lake Wallenpaupack after their fishing boat was upset by waves lake officials said were "the highest ever experienced."

Reported lost in the lake waters were Amos Noble, 39, of 2402 Northampton St., Easton, and Harry Confer, 35, of 528½ New St., Allentown, Pa. They were with a party of fishermen including Noble's father, Amos Noble Sr., who owns a cottage at the lake.

Dr. Peter Migliorino, of Scranton, told state police he saw a boat capsized by the high waves. Migliorino said he saw one man clinging to the overturned boat and heard calls for help.

He notified lake superintendent Robert Tragus, who reported the boat was rented earlier in the day by Noble and Confer.

State police started an investigation, but the water was too rough to carry the search onto the lake. They said they will begin a search for the bodies of the two men today, if conditions permit.

Earlier, three other fishermen were saved from the lake's icy waters after their boat capsized.

Vote On Tax May Go Over To Next Week

Harrisburg (AP)—The Republican House leadership agreed yesterday to postpone any action on attempting to pass the once-defeated personal income tax levy until at least Wednesday.

Philadelphia's city charter election on Tuesday, taking away Philadelphia's Republican and Democratic House delegations for electioneering work, brought about the decision.

The administration is continuing on the counting on the support of the 12 Quaker City GOP House members to vote for the one-half of one per cent income levy designed to raise $119,000,000 in the next two years.

Speaker Herbert P. Sorg (R-Elk) said that although Wednesday would be the earliest the administration would seek a decision on the income tax, it was quite possible that a decisive vote would not be taken until the following week.

The administration's strategy hinges entirely on wooing at least two more GOP insurgents to vote for the levy. A GOP House caucus last week saw only 103 members get on the line for support of the administration move.

Gov. John S. Fine, leveling another blast at his budget critics, said that "some people who are for a sales tax are trying to scuttle the income tax program."

There are no other practical broad base taxes available which would raise the amount of money necessary to run the State government for the next two years," Fine declared.

He emphasized that $163,000,000 is needed in new taxes to meet higher State costs the next two years.

Plunges To Death

New York (AP)—Robert L. De Muth, 48, a Wall St. stockbroker, broke loose from his son's grasp and plunged to his death early yesterday from his fifth-floor suite in the fashionable Hotel Carlyle. Police listed the death as apparent suicide.

Three Rescued From Icy Lake Wallenpaupack After Clinging To Capsized Boat 90 Minutes

Wallenpaupack — Three fishermen were saved from the icy waters of Lake Wallenpaupack, Wayne county yesterday morning after having clung to their capsized boat one and a half hours.

Rescued were: Louis Melkrantz, 20, of 1419 Chew Ave., Philadelphia, and Albert Ford, 46, and Russell Hetzel, 22, both of Hatboro, Pa.

They left Secley's landing in a rowboat with an outboard motor attached at 6 a. m. yesterday.

They were a mile and half from shore when a succession of three waves caused the boat to capsize an hour later.

The trio clung to the overturned boat until they were sighted by other fishermen at 8:30 a. m. and were assisted to Pep's landing.

Those in the rescue party were: George Bauscher and John Peters both of Allentown; Ernest Benfield, Gilbertville, and Paul S. Frankusis, of Boyertown.

Dr. Richard Porter, of Hawley, was called and also firemen from the Hawley fire department headed by Chief Patrick Monahan, who brought a pulmotor with him.

In meantime, Hetzel, who was weak from exhaustion and had almost lost his grip on the boat, according to State Trooper Leo Ferwein, of the Milford barracks was subjected to artificial respiration to which he responded. Melkrantz and Ford were said to have suffered only slightly from exposure.

Killer Of Three At Ashley Is Arrested In California

Red Wood City, Calif. (AP)—Charles Edmund Rovinsky, 24, wanted for questioning in connection with the slaying of his wife and two members of her family at Ashley, Pa., was arrested yesterday by San Mateo county sheriff's deputies.

Deputy William Regan said Rovinsky carried a .38 caliber pistol when arrested at a drive-in restaurant at Edgemar, a seacoast village about four miles south of San Francisco. He did not resist.

Officers said Rovinsky had been sought since March 14 in connection with the death of his wife, Margaret, and her father—Andrew Stuka, 55—and brother-in-law, George Tomko, 33.

Police said Rovinsky's capture was made possible by the quick, cool action of Mrs. Jayne Wood of Edgemar.

Police Chief William Regan of Sharp Park said she had been notified to be on the lookout for Rovinsky after Pennsylvania authorities said he might try to contact friends in this area. Rovinsky had known Mrs. Wood's husband, Belington, during World War Two.

When Rovinsky called at the Wood home, Regan said, Mrs. Wood told him her husband was asleep. She sent him to a nearby drive-in to wait for her husband to awaken.

Actually Wood was on his way to San Diego and Mrs. Wood was alone with her 18-months-old daughter. When Rovinsky left Mrs. Wood called police.

Regan immediately notified the San Mateo county sheriff's office here and four deputies were sent to Sharp Park. They entered the drive-in with Regan, walked up to Rovinsky, who sat drinking coffee, and flashed their badges.

He admitted he was Rovinsky and surrendered without resistance.

Later, a deputy said, Rovinsky told them he had blacked out just before the Ashley shooting and did not remember anything for a couple of days.

Police said the burglary took place in the early morning hours while Miss Hampton, her maid and butler were absent from the luxurious home. They said the butler, Charles Murray, told them he found the front door open when he returned at 3 a. m.

The jewelry and $10,000 of the cash were taken from a small safe in a closet of Miss Hampton's second floor bedroom. The mink coat had been hanging in the same closet. The safe, 15 by 15 by 18 inches, was carted away by the thieves. Police said the other cash was taken from a closet in a fourth-floor guest room.

Farmer Kills Family Of 5

Graysville, Man. (AP)—A 31-year-old farmer gave himself up to the Royal Canadian Mounted police Saturday night and told them he had slain his father, mother, two sisters and a brother with a high-powered rifle.

John Henry Schmidt was taken to Winnipeg, 50 miles northeast of here, and charged with murder.

The dead are: Henry Schmidt, 71, the father, Sarah, 68, his wife, Mary, 46, and Olga, 35, his daughters, and David, 38, his son.

Inspector W. M. Brady said John Henry Schmidt had made no coherent statement.

Coroner H. W. C. North said the bodies were found widely separated, inside the Schmidt farm home and outside, as if the killer stalked his victims wherever they tried to hide.

Thieves Make Off With $300,000 In Park Avenue Loot

New York (AP)—Former film actress Hope Hampton was burglarized of $300,000 worth of jewelry, $15,000 in cash and a $15,000 mink coat yesterday, police reported.

The jewels, coat and cash were taken from the ransacked four-story and basement dwelling of Miss Hampton at 1145 Park Avenue.

Smoke-Screen Shields Reds From Aircraft

Tokyo, Monday, (AP) — Allied forces rammed against Red positions for limited gains today on the western and central Korean war fronts. Communist resistance behind a vast covering smoke-screen was spotty.

A delayed field dispatch reported Yanggu, on the eastern tip of the Hwachon reservoir in central Korea, was captured by an Allied tank-infantry task force yesterday.

The United Nations force rolled through an artillery barrage and Red mortar fire before seizing the town. Yanggu, about six miles north of Parallel 38, was a strong-point in Red defenses around Hwachon reservoir.

Far East Air Forces reported destruction or damage to 314 Red planes since the Reds invaded South Korea last June 25. Allied fighters and bombers knocked down 147 Russian-built jet fighters, the Air Force said.

FEAF placed Allied losses at 184 — only 11 of them in air combat.

The Air Force reported seven Russian-built jet MIG-15s attacked a flight of American F-80 jets in northwest Korea yesterday — the first appearance of Red fighters in three days. No damage on either side was reported.

AP Correspondent Jim Becker reported Yanggu was deserted when the Allied force entered. Tank shells had exploded an ammunition dump among the shattered ruins.

Becker reported another Allied force beat off a Red counterattack yesterday afternoon north-east of Yanggu.

On the western front, Allied patrols punched into Red positions below Chorwon, Chorwon, 17 miles north of Parallel 38, is the western anchor of Communist defenses and believed an assembly point for thousands of Red reinforcements.

At U. S. Eighth Army headquarters, AP Correspondent Robert Euston reported the Reds had started brush fires to obscure their movements from Allied aircraft. The smoke bill may be hiding preparations for a massive Red counter-offensive.

Smoke billowed over the central front in clouds rising to 8,500 feet. It appeared that the Reds were adding to this shield by use of smudge pots.

Chinese and Korean Reds battled bitterly to block a three-pronged Allied drive yesterday on the hills below Chorwon. The hills were littered with Communist dead after a heavy Allied artillery barrage.

The dead are: Henry Schmidt, 71, the father, Sarah, 68, his wife, Mary, 46, and Olga, 35, his daughters, and David, 38, his son.

Gen. MacArthur Winging Way Across Pacific After Giant Hero's Farewell From Japs

Tokyo, Monday, (AP)—Gen. Douglas MacArthur started the long journey home today with a hero's farewell from the Japanese to whom he came as a conqueror five years and seven months ago.

From the moment he left his home in the American embassy at 6:28 a. m. until his silvery Constellation, the "Bataan" took off at 7:21 a. m. (5:21 p. m. EST Sunday), the general's departure was a brilliant pageant.

It was replete with military pomp and protocol, with honor guards and blaring bands, swishing jet planes, saluting officers and cheering bowing and gaping Japanese by the hundreds and hundreds of thousands.

The 71-year-old soldier statesman was relieved from all his command April 11 by President Truman because of a disagreement over how to fight the Korean war and how to contain Communist aggression in the Far East.

Now he is homeward bound, to great public welcomes in Honolulu, San Francisco and New York, and to address a joint session of Congress on his policy views. He expected to reach Honolulu about midnight Sunday, Honolulu time (5 a. m. Monday, EST), but the remainder of his schedule was not definite as to time.

Since the dismissal, MacArthur had kept himself secluded from the public until this morning, when he took his place in a waiting black limousine beside his devoted wife, Jean, and 13 year-old son, Arthur.

Stiffly erect and without a flicker, he saluted the 30-man honor guard representing all branches of the U. S. armed forces as his car rolled from the embassy grounds onto the rutted, Tokyo streets where an estimated 500,000 to 1,000,000 Japanese awaited.

His staff members and domestic staff who accompanied him followed in six other cars while 10,000 Japanese police lined the processional route—not for security, they said, but as a goodbye tribute to their conquering hero.

Police Clear Up Series Of Recent Burglaries In Region

Thefts Solved During Probe Of Stolen Car

A stolen car incident on Saturday resulted in clearing up a series of burglaries in the Stroudsburg, Upper Mt. Bethel township, Northampton county, and Columbia, N. J., Chief of Police Arthur Swink of the East Stroudsburg department reported yesterday.

Two juveniles are implicated in the series of thefts along with two adults, one of whom has not been apprehended. Committed to the Monroe county jail is Charles Sidney Samsbach, 19, of 75 Washington St., East Stroudsburg, who is employed in a Stroudsburg garage. One of the juveniles, aged 17, is in the juvenile department of the jail, while the other one is in custody of relatives, police reported.

Samsbach pleaded guilty at a hearing before Justice of the Peace Herbert G. Bonser, of East Stroudsburg, who also made the disposition of the juveniles. Officer Edward Harloe, is the prosecutor.

Robberies cleared up included those at Walter Peeney's Gulf station, Washington and Courtland Sts., East Stroudsburg; the Keiper laundry, Stroudsburg; two service stations in Upper Mt. Bethel township, Northampton county, and one in Columbia, N. J.

The break came through the theft of the 1937 sedan owned by Charles Werkheiser, 139 E. Broad St., East Stroudsburg, which had been parked in front of his home. The theft took place after 1 a. m. Saturday, it developed.

When Mr. Werkheiser arose Saturday morning and discovered his car was missing, he went to the police station where he informed officer Donald Quick of the theft. Asked who had been at his home Friday night, Werkheiser named the juvenile who resides in Stroudsburg.

Officer Quick went to the youth's home, got him out of bed and took him to the East Stroudsburg police station, where he was questioned. The youth informed the officer he had taken the car after 1 a. m. Saturday. He said he drove to the vicinity of Columbia, N. J., where he was forced off the highway by a machine approaching in the opposite direction. He crashed into a pole damaging the vehicle to the extent of about $200. He was alone and escaped injuries, he told the police.

When Chief Swink went on duty, he continued questioning the juvenile when Samsbach was implicated in a series of robberies. Samsbach was brought to the police station where, after about four hours of questioning, he admitted his part in the other burglaries. Officer Edward Harloe and Pfc. Alexander Kearns, of the Stroudsburg barracks of State Police, also took part in the questioning of the defendant.

While an officer was sent after Samsbach, the juvenile admitted to Chief Swink that he and Samsbach had been implicated in the theft of some $117 cash and checks from the Gulf service station in East Stroudsburg.

Chief Swink reported that Samsbach admitted he broke the window in the lavatory of the service station, leaned through the opening and took the money bag which had been secreted in the towel rack by the attendant when he closed the station Saturday night, March 31.

Samsbach is said to have informed the police that he had used his dad's car the night of the robbery and that he, the juvenile and another person, not identified at this time, drove a few miles up Route 209 where the money was divided into three equal parts. They burned the checks of $38 and $2 each and money bag. He said they went to a Stroudsburg diner, ate, and went home to bed.

Trooper Kearns and Officer Harloe questioned Samsbach as to other robberies when after some three hours' grilling, he admitted his part in the other robberies, the officers said.

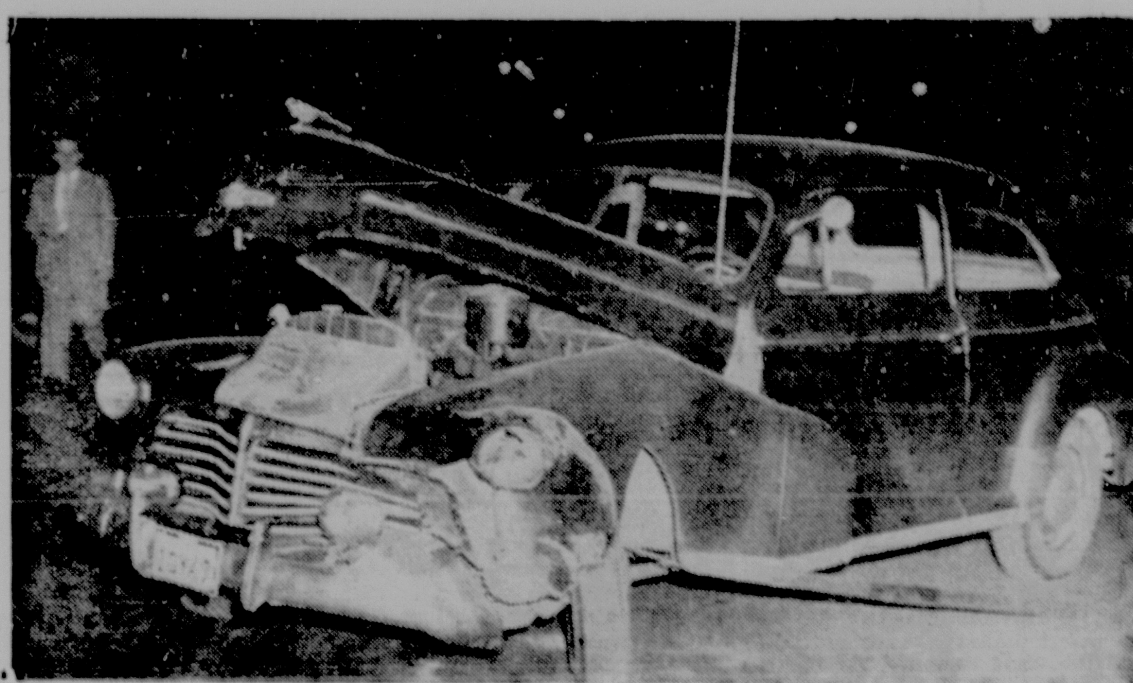

Samsbach told police he and the juvenile implicated in the car theft and East Stroudsburg gas station, had entered the Keiper laundry through a garage door and collected clothing of all descriptions, estimated value of $300, between 10:30 and 11 p. m. March 28. The material police say was placed in an old car belonging to the defendant which was parked on Elizabeth St., East Stroudsburg, in the rear of the high school stadium.

The same group broke into the Gulf service station at Columbia, N. J., where they secured some cigarettes and loose change, Samsbach told police.

Jesse Felker, police officer in Mt. Bethel and Portland visited the East Stroudsburg police station on Saturday afternoon. He stated he would contact District Attorney Jacob Raub today with reference to the robberies in Northampton county.

Warren County, N. J., authorities, will be contacted in connection with the Columbia case.

Two-Car Collision Occurs At Main-Seventh Intersection

One person was injured in a two-car motor crash at Seventh and Main Sts., Stroudsburg, at 12:20 a. m. Sunday. Damage to the machines was not extensive, Officer William Borger, who investigated, reported.

Elsie Cramer, 47, of East Stroudsburg RD 3, was alone in her car which she was driving west on Main street. She was making a left turn into S. Seventh St., when the vehicle struck the front of another machine moving east, owned and operated by Robert Van Buskirk, 28, of 118 Barnum St., East Stroudsburg.

The Cramer woman escaped injury, the officer said. In the car with Van Buskirk were Martha Eppley, 37, of 27 Washington St., East Stroudsburg, who suffered a cut on the bridge of her nose and forehead and was treated at the office of Dr. Marshall R. Metzgar, and Lorraine Hunt, 24, of 146 1/2 Day St., East Stroudsburg, who wasn't hurt.

The A frame of the Cramer car was bent, left front fender, headlight and grille damaged to the extent of $150. The officer estimated $50 damage to the Van Buskirk vehicle, bent frame and left front fender and hubcap. There was no prosecution, the officer stated.

Woman Hurt Seriously In Motor Crash

Brodheads ville — The vacation trip of Miss Catherine E. Long, 45, a checker employed in the kitchen of the Inn at Buck Hill, was ruined when she was seriously hurt in a motor accident at 10:00 a. m. yesterday. Hospitalized at the Monroe County General hospital, East Stroudsburg, her condition was pronounced as "fair" last night.

Miss Long was en route to Pine Grove, Pa., where she intended spending her vacation, when the practically new station wagon she was driving went out of control on Route 209, about two miles west of this place, police said. There were only 2,600 miles showing on the vehicle, according to State police of the local substation.

Police said that Miss Long told them she was driving between 35 and 40 miles an hour when she lost control. The machine struck a culvert and came to halt when it hit a stump of a tree, throwing her out of the vehicle.

Dr. L. C. Reese, of Gilbert, treated her at the scene and she was later removed to the hospital in the ambulance.

Doctors at the hospital stated she had back injuries, injured ankle, laceration of the head and concussion. X-ray pictures were taken but had not been fully diagnosed when physicians were contacted. Miss Long was alone in the vehicle at the time of the accident.

Congregation Opposes Track Near Church

Gilbert—The congregation of the Salem Evangelical and Reformed church here yesterday adopted a resolution opposing the proposed establishment of a stock-car racing track next to the church property. Rev. Alton Albright, pastor, said yesterday.

The strongly worded resolution, preceding what congregational leaders said would be "legal action" occurred after services and after "a full discussion of the plan to place an automobile stock car race track" next to the church.

The congregation noted that their action follows a similar action taken by the Progressive Women's Club of the West End last week.

Legal advice will be promptly sought to institute whatever action is necessary to halt location of the race track against the church property, officials said.

They indicated they are not seeking to halt racing, as such, but are determined to halt any efforts to establish a track in the proposed location.

The Untouchable Budget

Governor John S. Fine is drawing a tragic picture of what will happen in Pennsylvania if he doesn't get the $5-a-thousand income tax he is asking the Legislature to approve.

Public schools will suffer; so will hospitals, colleges, State institutions and public health . . . so says Governor Fine.

He adds that if the Legislature fails to pass the income tax, then a State sales tax will be needed in order to carry out the worthy and necessary aims of the State.

"The choice," he says, "is between an income tax or a sales tax."

Not that Mr. Fine excludes the possibility that the State might do as any prudent individual would do in time of financial stress . . . pull in the belt and cut out the frills.

Of course, the voters might not like to see the State economize at the expense of public schools, teachers salaries, hospital appropriations and public health.

But who ever suggested such a move? What's the matter with economizing at the expense of Harrisburg's over-loaded political payrolls?

How about cutting out the limousines . . . and chauffeurs . . . for high-ranking officers? How about combing through the budget for the comparatively small dribs and drabs that mount up to millions when they're totalled up?

Mr. Fine's budget is a strange document in some respects. He estimates present State taxes will give the State's General Fund only 680 million dollars in the next two years, as compared with 678½ millions in the last two years.

He makes this estimate in the face of the non-stop inflation that boosts prices, wages, corporate profits and everything else measured in dollars . . . including tax receipts of the Federal Government. Some people think Mr. Fine's income estimated is 60 million dollars too low.

With all the departments under Mr. Fine asking increased funds, the Legislature . . . strangely enough . . . pulled in its belt. It asked for $3,472,935 as compared with $3,760,180 last time.

That's a reduction of 7.6 per cent and if Mr. Fine made a similar scale-down for the entire General Fund, the economies would amount to more than 60 millions.

Increased revenues of 60 millions and 60 millions less spending equals 120 millions . . . or just what Mr. Fine wants from the income tax.

Within the next week or two, the Fine income tax measure will come up a second time for a vote after being defeated two weeks ago.

We say that the Legislature . . . regardless of political makeup . . . should leave the income tax bill on the table while it digs into Governor Fine's untouchable budget to find out why it can't be cut.

All of us know that if either a State sale tax or a State income tax is enacted it will be here to stay. It will be there to be increased year after year . . . an open invitation to Governors with untouchable budgets to sock it on heavier and heavier each year.

We say again Rep. John Shotwell and Senator Montgomery F. Crowe have their mandate from their people. They must not ignore it.

Try And Stop Me

Walter Lowen, head of a well-known employment agency, expected an important client in his office who was very partial to a special brand of cigars. The one pipe in the neighborhood that carried this brand was that exclusive habitat of movie stars and social arbiters, "21." Lowen summoned a new office boy and started to explain to him the location of "21" and what he'd have to do to talk his way past Jimmy, the guardian of the entrance gate.

"You don't have to go through all this," said the new boy loftily. "I've had a charge account there for years." (What's happened to that old capitalist system of ours?)

And in the same vein Jack Smart, who plays "The Fat Man" in radio and pictures, points out one indisputable advantage of weighing three hundred pounds: you always know where your cigar ashes are going to land.

Hollywood

By Gene Handsaker

Hollywood—A blind woman is serving as technical adviser on a movie these days. Viveca Lindfors is playing a blind girl in "Skid Row." Showing her how to be a blind girl, who says she has been totally blind since the wrong drops were put in her eyes three days after her birth.

How to walk—with sureness yet slowness; with hesitancy when approaching steps—as Miss Hurst describes it. How to set a tray down—"put your left hand down first, to be sure where you are setting it." How to pour water into a pan—"put your fingers inside the edge; stop pouring when the water reaches them."

Miss Hurst doesn't think a blind person has ever been portrayed accurately on the screen. "They play is sobby or sad. The tone of voice is always played down. They think because we can't see we're stupid or can't hear. They act depressed."

The sightless role, for which Miss Lindfors is wearing opaque contact lenses, depressed her at first. Miss Hurst, who's slender, witty, and cheerful, got her to cheer up for the part.

Miss Hurst and her husband, George Colours (not the actor) sit in the front row at movies. Colours has 5 per cent vision.

"I can see the characters pretty well," he said. "I tell her the action lots of times, but she follows the story pretty well by the dialogue."

Miss Hurst was graduated from Columbia University in 1936, a major in psychology and social work, after studying with the help of readers. She studied at schools for the blind in France, Italy, and Germany. With her guide dog, Bonnie, she has traveled 200,000 miles to give lectures and help the blind in industry.

She and her husband trained 300 blind and partly blind persons for Lockheed Aircraft jobs during World War II. "They never had an accident," she said.

In 1939 she established in New York the Hazel Hurst Foundation for the Blind. With public support, it gives away 30 or more German shepherd blind dogs annually. Each dog gets three months' training, plus another month at the Foundation school with its new owner.

These Days -- By George E. Sokolsky

The Stand We Must Take
Mrs. Emily M. Bullitt writes the editor of the "Louisville Courier-Journal" about me as follows:

"The other night Mr. Sokolsky riddled our government with charges of inefficiency, cunning and a program Red to the teeth. Not content with attacking the present regime, he encompassed the past 18 years."

"This is a free country. We have chosen our leaders. We have free speech. Just how far one may go in attacking his country in time of extreme danger I do not know. There is such a thing as treason. People have been hanged for it."

Yes, people have been hanged for many things and burned at the stake and tortured. But that never solved anybody's problems. It only meant that one person was hurt, but the question of truth remained.

I did not make World War II nor did I compose the compromises of Teheran and Yalta. At most I can report them and their consequences. But even if I did not report them, the consequences would be the same. There are 60,000 casualties in Korea who are witnesses to those consequences.

Someone is to blame for the Korean War. There is a long history of Communism in China, at least 30 years of it. I know many of those men, having seen them grow up from schoolboys to fanatical Marxists. The State department has called them "Agricultural Reformers," but they were Marxists, their leaders were trained in Russia and whoever says it differently is not telling the truth.

It does no good to try to suppress the truth to save anyone's political skin. What we need to save is our country and our civilization.

Our civilization has been developing for some 6,000 years around the hard core of revealed natural law. Really, Mrs. Bullitt, it would matter little if I were hanged; the natural law will survive little folks like us, who may desert the truth to serve our confidence and necessity. No extreme danger faces our country except the danger that our people have departed from our traditions and have deserted their God for a life of ease and softness.

You worry about my speaking of "inefficiency, cunning and a program Red to the teeth." This is my business. For instance, I would like to know why we need to have the inflation through which this country is now passing when the government is completely in control of the movement of currency and has the power to control prices, wages.

Look at the slow motion of control. Now, I do not advocate a controlled economy, being a good, old-fashioned 19th century liberal, but it has been voted that we are to have a controlled economy. Actually what we have is anarchy, an economy controlled neither by the law of supply and demand nor by government fiat, but by compromises which squeeze our people between high cost of living and high taxes.

Would you say, Mrs. Bullitt, that I should not report about these matters or should I revel in all the tantrums of commissions and fixes and deals and trades which give to our era the title of "the big fix?"

I hope that partisanship does not blind any of us to the moral nihilism into which we have drifted. This nihilism is marked not only by the acceptance of corruption which would have shamed another generation and stirred anger among our people, but also by a lack of personal dignity and propriety even in high places.

We shall, of course, not live long enough to know whether your judgment is correct, or mine. History has its own curious ways of visiting the errors of one generation upon its grandchildren, just as the accumulations of one generation are often enjoyed by another—and are often wasted and destroyed by another.

When a generation shows inadequate respect for natural law, for the laws of God; when adultery becomes a vogue and murder a syndicate, and when children teach their parents, and those who manage the state are not ashamed of corruption—then it is not too courageous to cast aside convenience and to protest and be counted.

You may say that I take myself and my work too seriously. Yet, since I was a boy at college, three generations of youth have been to war. Throughout the world there is a struggle between those who believe in God's natural law and those who believe in Marx's dialectical materialism. In this fight, sides must be chosen.

The Once Over

Emergency Enroll On the MacArthur Case

Dear Babe:

Well, I guess President Truman who is to throw out the first ball in Washington Monday got mixed up in a pitching workout and threw out the first general in Tokyo. All I can say is that it looks like a hell of a way to win this Korean ball game. It just goes to show there is no future in the army if you act like you took a war too seriously. It is Mac's own fault. He refused to recognize double talk, indoor debating teams, world politics, British editorials, general snafu and the use of revolving mirrors as important in reaching an objective. His trouble was that he insisted on being MacArthur, the general, and not Houdini, the handoff king.

He was not a diplomat or a trained smoothie. He could talk out of turn and be a little in-subordinate in the pinches, which can get any soldier into trouble. But there is a big shortage of plain talk these days, if you ask me, Babe, and the higher up you go the worse it gets. Which is why it hurts me to see Douglas get the works. To me it is like disciplining a direction sign for being correct or tearing a hole in a map because it shows everything too clear. Joe Stalin would of given anything to capture MacArthur. I guess not even Pravda expected Mac would be captured by his own side.

Sergeant Mooney says the next time somebody asks him what we are fighting for in Korea he is going to tell them we are fighting to see how far a general can go in winning a war without being bounced. He could be right. Mac was not God but he was the most colorful, dramatic, inspiring general in the whole picture and, believe me, them things help over here in the tough spots. To me he will always be first in war, first in peace and last in the hearts of the politicians and the more timid U. N. delegations.

If any war ever needed technical and a good press, this is it, and Mac gave it them things. Benching him was like taking Muzak out with the basses full, scratching Man O'War from a walkover or silencing the biggest mikes on the Voice of America on amount of the message was getting through too clear. And I don't see what Truman has gained. Mac was a big headache to him. But Harry is now bringing the headache closer to him.

Well, my bet is that if and when he returns to the U. S. A. he will get a reception that will make the Democrats wish he was back to Tokyo or even farther. Even if he tries to discourage it I will bet he will bring on the biggest confetti and ticker tape shortage in history. The confetti sure will drop on Truman's supply lines, reservoirs and bases, regardless of U. N. rules.

It is all very sad, as I think one war at a time is enough and do not like to see them breaking out in every drugstore, saloon, and neighborhood tavern back home over how a war in Asia is being fought. All I hope is that Moscow is not getting too many laughs. I love you more than ever and I guess if I could get called home for talking too much I would start bellowing fast.

A million kisses.

EMIL

P. S.—The funniest thing is Truman firing somebody for writing too many letters.

"There was something churning around inside of me and I couldn't handle it."—Sterling Hayden, movie star, in explaining how he came to join the Commies. Your churning must have been away out of order, bub. Things churn around inside all Americans these troubled days. But millions, far less rugged than you, are able to resist any urge to help Russia.

"Eric Johnson told the audience that the controls imposed have stopped the dizzy dance of prices."—News item. The wife insists, fresh from another shopping tour, that, on the contrary, the prices keep singing "Shall we dance?" with special gusto.

Vanishing Americanism
"One thing we've got in this war is team play."
"Yes, the situation is perfectly clear to me from all angles."

My New York

—By Mel Heimer

New York—By the time you bite the tip from your cigar and sit down in the living room to read this, if you read this, it is possible that an announcement will have been made that Uta Hagen will act in George Bernard Shaw's "St. Joan" next autumn on Broadway.

The numerical position of a certain cast may interest you more greatly, or perhaps it is the battle average of Ted Williams in spring training that holds you enthralled—but in the theater, this is big and important news. St. Joan was the play that ultimately and finally elevated Katharine Cornell to the Duse-Behn-hardt-Minnie Maddern Fiske shelf, and if it could do that for Miss Kit, it may be as kind to Miss Hagen, who seems as talented as Cornell and even more Juneauque.

Miss Hagen was covered with the grease of make-believe, with a towel spread across her chest and her short blond hair up in curls, when I interviewed her today in her dressing room at the Lyceum before the matinee of "The Country Girl." In brief, she was a mess. She couldn't have cared less.

It was about living in Greenwich Village that Miss Hagen talked. For 14 years, off and on, she has been a Villager, and she plans no immediate change. Whenever she's in New York, that is, Miss Hagen already has made three year-long tours of the country, in "Othello" and other charades.

There is a legend that the Village is a low and sinful place, infested with opium-eaters, and a further legend that anyone who brings up a child in this neighborhood is a slothful parent. Children, the myth persists, need grassy fields, the old swimmin' hole and conveniently-placed trees from which to fall and break arms.

"I do not," Miss H. said firmly, "consider that my child's upbringing has been neglected. I have a daughter, named Letitia, called Letty. She has spent the major part of her young life living, playing, sleeping and eating in the Village, and I think she is a very fine daughter, indeed. She smokes no marijuana, nor does she swagger around mannishly and throw rocks at me.

"She is somewhat extroverted. It is true, and the other day a boy at school knocked her two front teeth out, but this is less than nothing. She grew up playing in the Washington Square playground, and she is healthy, wise and talented."

The nerve center of the Village is Eighth street, from Fifth to Sixth avenues, a path full of curio shops, dairies, movie houses, bars and delicatessens. On Saturday nights, it overflows with tourists looking furtively for The Real Village, and on Sunday morning it lies deserted and smelling of beer, as if with a hangover.

In the daytimes, however, it is a bustling and friendly street, and Letty Ferrer—the product of Miss Hagen's since-terminated marriage to Jose Ferrer, possibly America's foremost actor now—skips along it daily.

The delicatessen man knows now has 120 lawyers on the payroll. Its enforcement officer, Edward Morgan, was chief counsel of the Tydings investigation subcommittee that white-washed charges of Communists in government. Morgan also helped handle the Senate Pearl Harbor investigation for the Democrats.

Washington reporters were described as being lazy by one government official. He said it is necessary to put out press releases because reporters want somebody to do their writing for them. To save his hide he will remain nameless here, although many editors might share his views.

As a wind-up to Washington in the spring it might be well to remind the bureaucrats that since they started spending billions to control inflation, prices, wages, etc., it is costing us on the average 43 3/4 per cent more to live today than before the Korean war started.

her, and the super-market clerk saves her healthy heads of lettuce. The soda jerk knows her, and the man who sells papers. She walks up to school in Tenth street, near Wanamakers, and when spring turns the corner, she runs through Washington Square. Who is going to say she is a lost soul?

"We lived for a while uptown," said Miss Hagen, "and the contrast between Sutton Place and Washington Square North is sharp. Downtown, I can let Letty go off by herself. It's so neighborly; people know her and call to her, and it's as if she lived in a small town. A cosmopolitan small town. Uptown, I'd never let her go off by herself."

Of the enormous amount of phones in the Village—the bearded and unwashed, who make up in eccentricities what they lack in talent, and who may be observed nightly at MacDougal and Minetta street saloons seeking The Truth, and whatever temporary physical delights they can pick up along the way—Miss Hagen is tolerant. "I don't mind them," she said.

callous government, an immoral government.

Statistics are boring and can also be brazen liars.

But this bit of statistics throws light on much of what is wrong with our country.

At our last Presidential election approximately 43,800,000 people voted, although there were almost 98,000,000 men and women over 21 years of age living in the United States.

Let us assume that ten million of these were aliens, criminals, lunatics or patients too sick to vote.

That means that close to forty million qualified citizens did not do their civic duty—did not go to the polls.

What a difference that might have made in the results—and in the morality of our country!

I wish there were a law that would make voting obligatory.

Is casting one's ballot too high a price to pay for the privilege of living in America?

The greatest privilege of citizenship is the right to elect our representatives.

But that privilege is also an obligation.

Forty million Americans neglecting that duty may well upset our constitution and all that it means.

You may be sure that all the organized gangsters, gamblers, narcotic peddlers, prostitutes and others that befall our way of life go to the polls and herd their henchmen to the ballot box, and every one of them will vote promptly and as often as he can.

If crooks are elected to office, who is to blame?

The forty million all over the country who do NOT vote—and in State and Municipal government the thousands in each community who are too lazy or too negligent to do their sacred duty.

Align Wheels Properly To Save Tires

Spring is the time to give thought to the proper checking up on proper wheel alignment and wheel balancing of your car. This will not only eliminate excess tire wear but also prevent blowouts in the summer. To be sure that your car is in proper alignment and that the wheels are in proper balance we suggest that you stop in and see R. D. Coss, your Bear alignment serviceman located at Bartonsville, just above the intersection on the trail.

Mr. Coss who has years of experience in this field has the latest and finest equipment on the market today to insure proper adjustment and correction to wheel and frames to a fraction of an inch. These are a few timely thoughts that Mr. Coss has to say to the motorist of Monroe county.

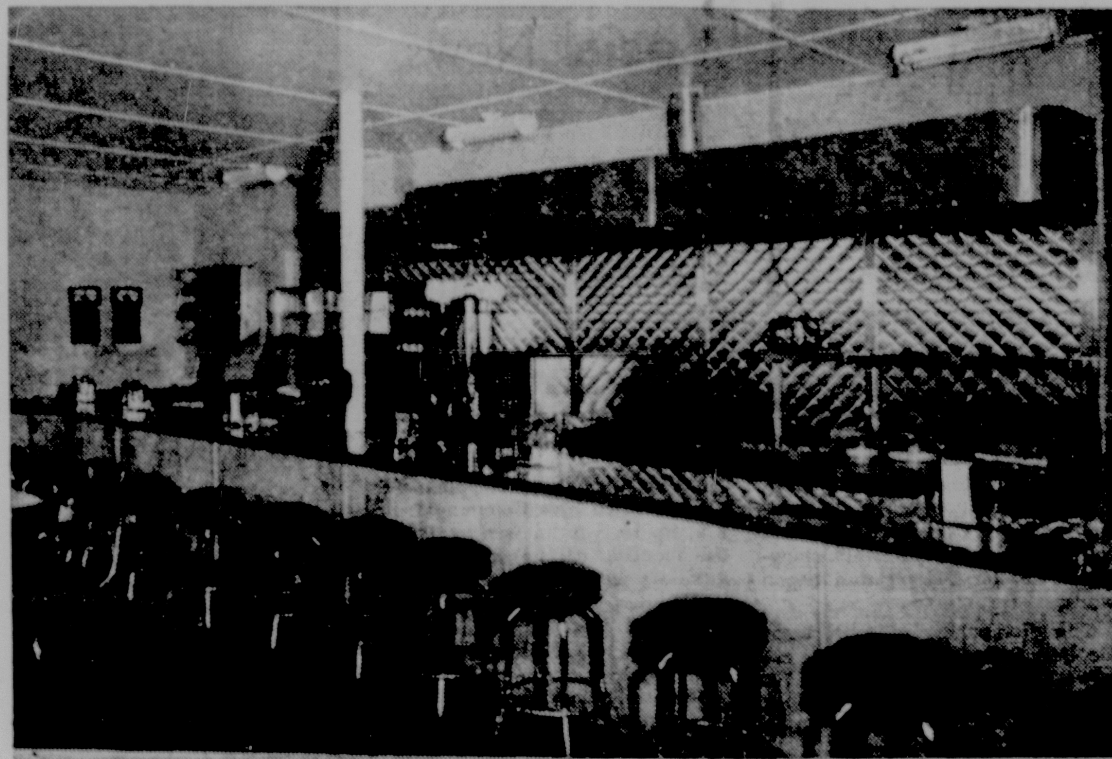

Wheel balancing service as a means of stopping wasteful tire wear and putting an end to vibrations which tend to shorten the life of your car is recommended by all automotive manufacturers, all tire companies, all oil concerns and public safety officials.

If your car is hard to handle—if you feel shock, shimmy or jiggle—watch out! Two things are happening:

One—Good rubber is being scraped off your tires 50% to 100% faster than normal with corresponding excess wear on the steering and front end parts.

Two—You are inviting accidents and taking unnecessary risks with your own life and the lives of all who ride with you.

Don't be a tire waster and tempt

ONE OF THE MANY LONDON SUPPLY INSTALLATIONS—The above view is an interior photo of the new Manhattan restaurant, located at Newfoundland, Pa. This restaurant was completely outfitted by the London Restaurant Equipment and Supply Co., manufacturers, designers and suppliers of restaurant and tavern equipment. The London company's showrooms are located at Tannersville on Route 611.

fate besides. Bear dynamic wheel balancer will absolutely stop wasteful tire wear and end costly repair bills. This machine employs a new and revolutionary principle that tests both static and dynamic wheel balance.

Your tires are valuable. You can't afford to neglect any service that will give you the greatest possible mileage from them.

See the Bear balancer in operation—watch the uncanny way it detects dangerous wheel conditions and see how smoothly the wheel whirls after corrections are made.

You'll know then why you increase tire mileage, prevent expensive repairs, and have easier safer car handling after Bear dynamic service.

Wheel balancing has become more important than ever due to the widespread use of recaps and retreads. Where the average truck tire was from six to 12 ounces out of balance, recaps and retreads may run from 20 to 30.

A little unbalance at 10 mph. would not be noticed. In going twice as fast, 20 mph., the unbalance weight has an effect that is not twice as much but four times as much. At 30 it is nine times, at 40 it is 16 times as much.

That is the reason that just a few ounces of unbalance at the tread will develop a 10 to 12-pound vibrating force at 40 mph.

If we get wheels that are six to 12 ounces out of balance, as is often the case, the vibrating force is terrific.

One—Uneven tire wear resulting in premature failure.
Two—The pounding out of grease and oils in vital front end parts, thus causing more rapid wear.

Three—Abnormal wear of wheel bearings, bushings, king-pins, tie rod ends, knee action parts and steering gear parts.

Four—Excessive body and chassis strains.

Five—Rough riding and danger at high speeds.
Six—Hard steering.
Seven—Wheel misalignment because of excessive vibration.
Eight—Increased gas consumption—decrease in average speed.

Joseph H. Andre Displays Versatile Garden Tractor With Various Attachments

Now that spring is here, the man of the house is busy outdoors cleaning up the garden and giving the grass that final cleaning before cutting.

This is where the versatile Choremaster comes into its own. This precision built one-wheel garden tractor is really a year-round labor saver as the Choremaster can be used in the spring time for cultivating, cutting grass in the summer, sharpening tools or cutting wood in the fall and snow plowing in winter time. This can all be accomplished with a variety of attachments that can easily be installed in a matter of minutes.

Joseph H. Andre, of Stroudsburg RD 2, is the representative for the Choremaster in this area. Here are some of the advantages and features of this outstanding machine.

One practical unit for all your jobs. Through precision built gear reduction, the Choremaster puts all the power of the 2 to 3 h. p. air-cooled engine into doing the job. From an economy angle the Choremaster offers small investment yielding years of dividends. Initial cost of Choremaster and attachments is amazingly low. Maintenance and gas consumption are negligible. This versatile machine is engineered and precision built by one of the industry's famous firms. The Choremaster is produced to bring you top quality.

Between the row cultivation—the one wheel feature of the Choremaster permits cultivation at any time during the growing season. Operation ease—proper weight distribution makes the Choremaster well balanced and easy to handle. Clutch and throttle on the handles provide fingertip control. Attachments—The attachments are either mounted from front or rear of the Choremaster in a matter of minutes.

enabling quick change for numerous jobs. Centrifugal clutch—This accessory provides complete control of the Choremaster by the throttle, saves engine life and makes attachments easy to handle.

Some of the attachments that can be installed on your Choremaster in a matter of minutes include a sickle bar, belt reduction and gear box type. These are the mowers for heavy duty grass and weed cutting. Thirty-two inch sickle bar is driven from the tractor's high speed power take-off. Trims close to fences. Easily maneuvered in and out of corners. Three points of ground contact permits moving over all ground contours. Gear box type with anti-friction bearings throughout bevel gear box and pitman for long life.

It also has a Seedmaster seeder for planting large area. Attaches easily to Choremaster; driven by slow power take-off. Centrifugal clutch feature controls seeds at all times; for every type of garden seed.

Hitch your present hand mower to Choremaster power and this lowest universal hitch does the trick. Merely substitute universal lawn mower hitch for the present handle, attach to Choremaster and presto! A power mower.

There is an air compressor which is attached to Choremaster power which does work in a matter of minutes, which ordinarily takes hours to do. Indispensable for the general upkeep work, painting, fumigation, disinfecting, greasing and tire pumping. Supplies three cu. ft. at 60 lbs. pressure.

Walks and drives come clean in a hurry with the "Choremaster" snow plow. Broad sweep all-steel blade cuts 24" path even in deep snow. Use plow for leveling and light grading when winter's over. Dozer blade also available in 30-inch width.

Seedmaster seeder—For planting large areas. Attaches easily to Choremaster; driven by slow power take-off. Centrifugal clutch feature controls seeds at all times; for every type of garden seed.

2-4-D weed sprayer—Insures proper weed control; treats 3/4 of an acre of lawn per hour. Entire spray unit mounted or detached in 5 to 10 minutes. Boom adjustable for spraying in high weeds. Sprays solid 110 inches wide. Change nozzles to spray garden or shrubs.

Rotary Club Marks Fourth Anniversary

Pocono Manor—The fourth anniversary dinner and dance of Mount Pocono Rotary club was held here last week with a dance in Manor hall following a banquet address by Otto Weyand, past district governor of Rotary International.

Members and their wives attended a cocktail party in The Inn's new Terrace Room.

Ken Banzoff, president, presided. He lighted a candle given the club by former Governor Simon which is at least 50 years old. It burned for one hour during anniversary ceremonies.

Father Harrity gave the invocation preceding the dinner. President Banzoff introduced Mr. Weyand.

The past district governor's remarks centered around the four objects of Rotary.

"A stranger," he said, "is a friend you've never met".

Rotary is like building a temple. Mr. Weyand observed. The foundation of the floor is club service. The building is spread out and takes the shape of community service. The upper part is created by vocational service and the dome of the temple...with international service...has as its principal aim peace among men.

President Edward C. Jenkins of Pocono Mountains Rotary and Mrs. Jenkins were guests.

District Governor Walter Penney spoke briefly. He said his term as district governor has been a happy one and one of the greatest honors bestowed upon him in his life.

State Funds Allocated For Road Project

Greentown — A sizable appropriation has been made for the reconstruction of routes 390 and alternate 390 in Greene township, it was learned here Friday night at a meeting of the Greene Township Civic association.

The allotment of funds by the Pennsylvania Department of Highways was announced by August Metz, Pike county representative in Harrisburg, who spoke to over 200 members of the association at its monthly meeting at the Penguin Circle restaurant.

The road in question, running from the Hemlock Grove church in Greentown to the State recreation area at Promised Land lake, has been the object of a lengthy campaign by the association, which contends that the thoroughfare is not only inadequate to handle the heavy vacation traffic but is a dangerous traffic hazard as well.

Although the appropriation is not large enough to complete the entire stretch of highway, work will begin this summer on the Greentown end, Metz said. Surveying crews are already at work on the project, he added.

Stocking of area streams and games lands and flood control along the branches of the Wallenpaupack creek were also discussed at the meeting.

Next meeting of the group is scheduled for the Penguin Circle on Tuesday, May 15.

Garbage Dumping Leads To Fines

Several persons have been apprehended for dumping garbage along the highways in Stroud township, according to Harold E. Albert, secretary-treasurer of the Stroud township supervisors.

Clubs Avoid Conflict With Kiwanis Show

Several organizations have changed dates of meetings in order that their members might attend the performance of Kiwanis Fashion Frolics at East Stroudsburg State Teachers College auditorium Friday, April 26, at 8 p. m.

Quite likely they recall the fun provided by the Kiwanis Kapers of a couple of years ago, which proved one of the most enjoyable shows of the season. Like the Kapers, the talent for the Fashion Frolics comes from the club personnel entirely, with many surprises in store.

The cast is busy visiting the haberdasheries and men's clothing stores trying on the outfits they will model during the various scenes of the show. This will be tied in with the story in a natural, though interesting manner.

The proceeds go to the education fund of the club. There are quite a number of men and women in the community filling positions of importance as a result of the operation of the fund.

Tickets are obtainable from club members, or John Watt, Security Trust Co.

TIME OUT—An unidentified fisherman takes time out for a brief rest during the opening day of Pennsylvania's Trout season yesterday, while his two companions continue to search for the brook beauties. The picture was taken at Stokes Mill.

Fishermen Hampered By High Creeks

Turnout for the opening day of Pennsylvania's trout fishing season was smaller than a year ago, Fish Warden Floyd Bachman reported yesterday and the catch was still smaller as compared to the same date in 1950. High streams was the main reason given for the comparatively poor turnout.

Those trying their luck on opening day numbered far less than they did a year ago, when an estimated crowd of some 7,000 people invaded the 23 streams under Bachman's supervision.

Cold weather featured the opening day of the 1950 campaign and the temperatures were also low at the early hours yesterday. High winds coupled with the high streams to make fishing anything but good yesterday, while periodic showers made it uncomfortable for the angler during the morning hours.

The full creeks hampered the angler with rough and muddy waters in many sections of the area.

During his rounds of the creeks Bachman reported a check revealed that the greater portion of the anglers were confined to a catch ranging from two to four trout.

Artificial lures seemed to be the most popular bait during the first day but worms were also in evidence.

Although the opening day crowd was obviously smaller than a year ago, Penn Hills Lodge reported a larger turnout of fishermen and their wives than 1950—more than 50 altogether.

Most of the group was made up of members of the Tedyuscung Sportsmen's Association, who reportedly made good catches, despite poor conditions. The group was said to be greatly impressed with the region and expects to return again next year. Carl Huckens Jr. is president of the association.

Private clubs in the Pocono Mountains reported satisfactory catches during the opening day hours.

Among the few reports of individual catches were Richard "Dicky" Everitt, who caught four, including one ten inches long, while fishing with his uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Everitt, of 512 Lindbergh Ave., Stroudsburg.

Warmer temperatures, lower creeks and less wind are expected to bring the anglers out in great numbers during the coming week-end.

"With a kind weatherman we'll have a record catch of trout this season," said C. A. French, executive director of the State Fish Commission. The trout season runs through July 31.

French said 2,205,943 legal size trout have been placed in the state's streams since January. Some 45 per cent were brook trout, some 40 per cent brown trout and the rest rainbow trout. All stocked trout range from the legal limit of six inches to 20 inches.

A state law passed in the 1930's permitted Sunday fishing on state and federal property. However, many anglers were expected to wait until today before first trying their luck.

Regulations are unchanged from last year. They permit a creel

Swimming Marks Punished In AAU Women's Indoor Action

By Max B. Skelton

Houston, (AP)—Two American and National marks were established yesterday in the final events of the 1951 AAU Women's Indoor Swimming meet.

Pat Keller McCormick, Los Angeles, also became the first diver ever to score a grand slam by holding all five indoor and outdoor diving championships at the same time.

New American and National marks were set by Carol Pence, Lafayette, Ind., in the 100-yard breaststroke, and the Town Club of Chicago, in the 300-yard medley relay.

Sharon Geary, in the 200-yard free style, a new event for the national meet.

Complete Slam
Mrs. McCormick completed her grand slam by taking the three meter dive title from Mary Frances Cunningham, Lafayette, the defending champion. Mrs. McCormick had won the one meter event Friday. She will defend her three outdoor meet championships, won last year, later this summer.

The 1951 meet's team championship went to Lafayette, with 54 points, followed by the Town Club of Chicago, 35, Los Angeles, 27, Washington, D. C., 12, Foral and Portland, Ore., five.

Mary Freeman, Washington, D. C., with two first places and a third place, took the high individual point medal with 12 points during the three day meet.

Mrs. McCormick scored 149.76 points yesterday while taking the three meter dive championship from Miss Cunningham, who finished with 143.05 points.

Candidates Hold Initial Drills

Twenty candidates reported for practice during the weekend with Pocono A. C. C. Monroe County's entry in the Blue Mountain League, it was announced last night by Fred Hershey, general manager of the organization.

Times
The practice sessions were started on Saturday and continued yesterday. They will continue every day after the Stroudsburg high school completes its drills.

Candidates were reportedly present from all parts of the county.

Pros Enter Tourney

New Rochelle, N. Y.—Right on the heels of Lloyd Mangrum and Henry Ransom, "Young Jack" Burke of the Shamrock hotel of Houston, Texas has checked in as the third of sixteen hand-picked stars who will participate in this year's Palm Beach Round Robin Invitation Golf tournament here at the Wykagyl Country Club.

Coming off the trans-continental hike with the tournament professionals to the last event on the winter schedule at Augusta, Burke met the Palm Beach Tournament manager, Harold McSpaden, and was able to announce he was feeling fit to start a new season where he had left off.

Uncle Miltie's Showing Upsets Derby Picture

By John Chandler

New York (AP)—Hang on tight folks, here we go again on the Kentucky Derby merry-go-round. Uncle Miltie can be whipped, and the seventy-seventh running of the $100,000 classic May 5 at Louisville is wide open as ever.

Labeled the horse to beat for the three-year-old honors after his impressive race last Monday at Jamaica, Uncle Miltie gave a dull performance Saturday in the Dubai Two.

J. J. Colando's colt wound up eighth in a field of ten, and even the boys around his barn can't say what happened, let alone the majority in a crowd of 40,351 who backed him down to 35 cents on the dollar then watched King Ranch's Sonie grab the gravy.

Uncle Miltie came out of the race sound, despite talk of a weak knee, his stable reported. Nothing could be found to offer a single excuse.

Wood Memorial
Had Uncle Miltie won, they would have had to draft a few to oppose him in the $40,000-added Wood Memorial coming up Saturday. Now it looks like 15 or more will turn out for the final eastern derby test. Gone are the comparisons between Uncle Miltie and Citation and Count Fleet, great three-year-olds of the past. Conditions for the Wood Memorial call for the horses to carry 126 pounds each, same as the Derby. Sonie had only 105 in the Experimental, Uncle Miltie 126, although the weight wasn't what beat the Colando star.

The result puts George Widener's Battlefield, the 1950 two-year-old champ, back into the Wood Memorial picture. The Wood is the same route as the Experimental, a mile and one sixteenth. Battlefield, second to Uncle Miltie a week ago, skipped the Experimental.

"He's still got to prove himself," said trainer Bert Mulholland of Battlefield. "There's no use kidding ourselves."

Over at Belmont Park, one of the hottest topics of conversation was Hal Price Headley's powerful big colt Jumbo, beaten half a length by Sonie after setting the pace all the way. Jumbo stumbled at the start Saturday, recovered quickly, but drifted wide in the stretch run afterwards, it was discovered he had suffered a slight cut in the right front heel.

Youngstown, O. (AP)—Rudy York, former Detroit Tigers' first baseman, is the new player-coach of the Youngstown Athletics in the Mid-Atlantic League. Owner Bill Koval of the Athletics said last night he hired York in a telephone call to Daytona Beach, Fla., where York has been working at the Cleveland Indians' farm camp.

The Giants used five hurlers—Sheldon Jones, Jack Kramer, Jim Hearn, Monte Kennedy and Dave Koslo—in final tuneups.

Pitcher In Critical Shape

Pittsburgh (AP)—Bill Pierre, Pittsburgh Pirate pitcher, is in a critical condition from a brain ailment. Dr. Norman C. Oshenhardt reported last night.

Pierre entered Presbyterian hospital Saturday on his twenty-fifth birthday. He first became ill at Knoxville, Tenn., last Tuesday.

Dr. Oshenhardt, the Buc team physician, said:

"I've consulted brain specialists and we've diagnosed Pierre's ailment as either encephalitis (inflammation of the brain) or meningitis (inflammation of the brain lining). His condition is critical and he's been placed in isolation."

Pierre's wife arrived by plane last night from their home in Brooklyn and rushed to his bedside.

The rookie pitcher lost two games for the Pirates last year after coming up from Indianapolis of the American Association where he had an 8-3 record.

Truman To Toss First Ball

By Joe Reichler

Washington (AP)—When President Harry S. Truman pitches the first ball in Washington today League baseball season, it will mark the thirteenth opening throw by a President of the U.S.

White House chuckers have been lucky for the Senators ever since President William Taft started the custom of throwing out the first ball back in 1910 at the request of Clark Griffith owner of the Washington club.

Over the years, Washington has won 3,577 games and lost 3,972 for a .474 percentage. On the other hand, with the President on tap for the opener, the Nats have won 17 and lost 12 for a .586 percentage.

Not always has it been possible for the President to keep the opening date with Griffith. There have been a dozen substitute throwers since Vice President James Sherman relieved for Taft in 1912.

The chief executives besides Taft who have started seasons with assorted heavies includes Presidents Woodrow Wilson, Warren Harding, Calvin Coolidge, Herbert Hoover, Franklin D. Roosevelt and Truman. All were ardent baseball fans except Coolidge.

Harding was a baseball magnate in his own right. He once owned a club in Marion, Ohio and had sent Wilbur Cooper, the great Pittsburgh and Chicago left-handed, to the majors. Taft had played the outfield for Yale and was a keen student of the game. Wilson had been a football and baseball coach at Wesleyan and a gridiron advisor at Princeton. Roosevelt had managed the baseball team at Groton.

"Coolidge was the only president who didn't like baseball," Griffith once related. "He'd usually leave about the second or third inning. But his wife, Grace, she loved baseball. She used to keep score."

Truman is the only southpaw of the pitching presidents. In 1948 he crossed up the photographers by throwing out one ball left-handed and a second one right-handed.

This will be the sixth appearance in the presidential box for Truman who was once a respected umpire in Missouri. A great guy for comebacks, Truman will be gunning for his third straight triumph after losing his first three starts. He made his first pitch in 1946.

Mantle Promoted To Yankee Varsity—But Dodgers Explode To Defeat Stengelmen, 7-6

New York, (AP)—Mickey Mantle, sensational New York Yankee rookie, celebrated his promotion to the varsity yesterday by banging out a home run and three singles but the Brooklyn Dodgers marred the occasion by nipping the Bombers, 7-6.

Shortly before game time the Yanks said they had bought the contracts of Mantle and Pitcher Frank Shea from their Kansas City American Association team. Shea, a 28-year-old right-hander, starred for the Yanks 1947 world champions, but had been bothered with a sore arm the past three years.

Mantle and Jackie Jensen drove in all the Yankee runs. Jensen homered and tripled.

Jensen's two-run homer off Chris Van Cuyk broke a 3-3 tie in the seventh and Mantle's round tripper, his ninth of the spring, gave the Yankees a three-run lead in the eighth.

Pitcher Slammed
However, Max Peterson, who relieved wild Tommy Byrne (he walked 11) couldn't stand prosperity and "Duke" Snider's second double with one out put him in trouble. A pass to Jackie Robinson and singles by Gil Hodges and Roy Campanella tied the score.

"Rocky" Bridges' infield out accounted for the deciding run.

Mantle will open the season today in rightfield when the world champions clash with the Senators in Washington.

Yankee Manager Casey Stengel also said Tom Morgan, another rookie find, will start against the Senators instead of "Lefty" Ed Lonat.

Neither Mantle nor Morgan were on the Yankees' winter roster. The 19-year-old Mantle, who led the class "C" Western Association in batting last year with a .383 mark, came to camp as a shortstop.

Morgan, a 21-year-old right-hander, won 17 and lost 8 at Binghamton in the Eastern league.

Baseball, Tennis Action Postponed

East Stroudsburg State Teachers College was forced to crowd its May athletic schedule on Saturday, when a tennis match and baseball game against Kutztown State Teachers College was postponed, due to unfavorable weather conditions. The two rivals of long standing have failed to reach a satisfactory date at the present time.

Oscar J. Liljenstein, director of athletics at the local college, announced late Saturday afternoon that he called the game off at 10:30 a. m., in order to keep Kutztown from making the trip to Normal Hill.

Liljenstein went on to say that it was raining lightly at the time he postponed the game and that the field wasn't in good condition for a ball game.

Travel
The postponement of the baseball contest automatically called off the tennis match, as most of the state teachers colleges of Pennsylvania arrange trips so the baseball and tennis teams travel together.

Although no new dates for the events has been set, it is believed they will be played sometime in May, Liljenstein stated.

The ESSTC diamond aggregation under the direction of Coach Ed Shay, plays at home tomorrow with Kings College, then stacks up against Panzer, in East Orange, on Wednesday. The tennis squad will also make the trip to Panzer on Wednesday.

On Saturday the girl's tennis team plays the Alumni, on Normal Hill, while the ESSTC track squad invades West Chester on the same day.

Following Wednesday's contest the baseball team enjoys a layoff of ten days, while the tennis squad will be inactive for two weeks.

Reds Defeat Indianapolis
Indianapolis, (AP)—The Cincinnati Reds closed out their 1951 pre-season exhibition schedule with a rousing 5-2 victory over the Indianapolis Indians here yesterday before 1,585 shivering fans.

Good Pitching
Herm Wehmeier and "Bud" Byerly set the American Association Hoosiers down with three hits and made 11 of the Indians bite the dust via strikeouts.

Right-hander Harry Fisher blanked the Reds for the first five innings, but the National leaguers got to him for three runs in the sixth and touched Bill Rose for a consolation two runs in the ninth.

Three Runs
The Cubs pounced on Ken Holcombe for three runs in the first inning on a walk, an error, singles by Hank Sauer and Roy Smalley and a double by Bill Serena. It proved adequate with Bob Schiltz, Omar Lown and Cal McLish hurling five-hit ball.

Only threat by the White Sox came in the sixth off Lown.

By capturing yesterday contest the Cubs won the 1951 spring city series 3-2.

Life of Riley

By JIM RILEY
Sports Editor

Bill Herring Jr., currently a member of the East Stroudsburg State Teachers College mound corps, is the son of a pitcher who made his mark in baseball long before most of us knew the score. Bill Sr., once hurled for the New York Giants, of the National league, and Brooklyn, of the old Federal league, not to mention several minor league clubs. The only difference between the two is the fact that the father was much bigger physically and right handed, while Bill Jr., throws from the left side and isn't big as far as baseball players go.

Bill Sr., according to the reports, made quite a hit with John McGraw, while toiling the latter part of the 1914 campaign with the Giants, who at the time featured such names as Christy Mathewson, Jeff Tesreau, Larry Doyle and Rube Marquard. He was farmed to New Haven, of the Colonial league, in 1915, but made the mistake of jumping to the outland Federal league during the same year. This escapade finished Herring with the Giants, and he ended his diamond career by pitching for Worcester, Eastern league, in 1916 and 1917. Herring was out of baseball in 1918, with arm trouble, but returned to play with Bridgeport and Albany, both of the Eastern league, for the next two seasons.

Herring Sr., is currently employed as a guard at the Farview State Hospital for the Criminally Insane, in Waymart. The Harrings are residents of South Sterling, but youthful Bill was a star athlete at Greene-Dreher High and played his summer baseball with the New-foundland Bears, then a member of the Wayne County league. In addition to his father, Henry "Hank" Botjer, manager of the Bears, has done more to develop the current member of the ESSTC mound corps than anyone else. Bill, in addition to pitching, can play the outfield and first base and is a solid stickler at the plate.

The youthful Herring was the captain of the only undefeated basketball team in the history of Greene-Dreher High, when the charges of Henry "Hank" Arneberg featured a 17-0 slate at the end of the 1947-48 campaign. Greene-Dreher went on to win the first ten games the next season to set a record for the area at that time of 27 straight victories. Herring will undoubtedly help the local college ball club plenty before the present campaign comes to an end.

Herring received some sound advice from his father during High school, during which time he wasn't allowed to throw a curve ball. Many hopeful pitchers are ruined in their younger days, when they hurt promising arms by trying to master the art of throwing the tricky stuff. Bill was taught form and control during his younger days, a factor which would have probably made pitchers out of a lot more players, who at the present time are only throwers. Baseball is a science that must be mastered before it can be played properly.

Mike Patrick, center of several storms in the North Atlantic league during the past two seasons, has signed to call 'em as an umpire in the Wayne county circuit this summer. Many of the area's most famous fishermen refused to take a crack at the sport yesterday morning, due to unfavorable weather conditions. From reports reaching this typewriter, many can be thankful they remained at home.

The curves are being banked at Sunrise Speedway, at Blakeslee, as authorities ready the track for another outstanding campaign. The fence hiding half the track also must be reconstructed, as it was blown down during the autumn and winter months. Rev. Ernest Campbell, Bill Nixon and Bill Wells were interested spectators at Friday's National Basketball Association of America playoff in New York, won by the Knickerbockers over Rochester, 79-73.

It seems to be great sport to steal flags off the fourteenth green at Glen Brook Country Club. The incident occurred on Saturday night and four or five times last season. The new flag on that hole seems to attract some people from the nearby road, which is as low a trick as could be pulled. However, this incident was even beaten about a month ago, when some character drove a car on the soft fourteenth green, leaving very prominent ruts which are tough to remove. Some people would go to any length to have a good laugh—at somebody else's expense.

Last year at this time the people of this area were wondering just what kind of a team the Stroudsburg Poconos would bring back from their training base at Salisbury, Md., a town that had lost its professional club, due to the collapse of the Eastern Shore league. However, this year the residents of this area are hopeful that Pocono A. C. will develop into an outstanding amateur entry in the Blue Mountain league, while Salisbury is about to venture into the Inter-State league, class "B," for the first time in history. Time certainly can make all sorts of changes.

Zaharias Sets Women's Record In Winning Weathervane Title

Dallas, Tex., (AP)—"Babe" Zaharias played like a champion must play yesterday to come back to victory in the $3,000 Weathervane Golf Tournament with a sizzling 66 that set an all-time record for women's golf.

Palmerton Entries Win Three Places

Monroe County Beagle club wound up its spring season here yesterday at Maple-in-the-Pines, with an All Age AKC Sanctioned field trial, featuring both a 13 and 15-inch division.

Sammy of Birch Creek, the property of Lawrence T. Daubert, Walnutport, won top honors in the 13 inch division. The remainder of the field found Lehigh Kandy, owned by Dr. R. H. Weisel, Bowmanstown, second; Beeher's Blackie, Palmerton, third and Clark's Ransom Casie, owned by James Clark, Ransom, Pa., fourth. Reserve hounds honors went to Valor Peanuts, property of Frank Wapinski, St. Clair.

Finish
Sittler's Sparkie, owned by James Sittler, Tamaqua, won the 15-inch honors, with Hahn's Chap, belonging to Allen Hahn, Palmerton, finishing second. Berger's Blackie, owned by Joseph Berger, Palmerton, third, while Alleneque Clipper, belonging to Herman Buss, Catawauqua, came home fourth. Reserve laurels went to Mac's Blackie, owned by Conrad Schaeffer, Berwick.

Judges for the 15-inch class were Wilbur G. Miller, Summit Hill, and Elwood Meyers, Easton. The 13-inch judges were Allen Lorah, Slatington, and Walter Werkheiser, Bethlehem.

Proceeds from yesterday's affair went to the Cornell University research fund for dog diseases.

Glen Brook Opens Despite Unfavorable Course

Play Limited To Back Nine Over Weekend

Glen Brook Country Club enjoyed one of its most successful opening days in the organization's history on Saturday, despite unfavorable weather and a soggy course that forced players to confine their action to nine holes. Thirty-five players were out on Saturday and 50 made their appearance at the local course yesterday.

Players were allowed to use only the back nine during the weekend, due to the soggy condition of the first nine holes, a condition which was brought about by recent heavy rains.

With some help from the weatherman this condition may be cleared up by next weekend.

New Members
Several new playing members were admitted to the club over the weekend and many others are expected to join the fold before the club ends its season in October.

The club will be open every day of the week from now on for anyone wishing to play golf.

A putting green is being constructed in front of the club house, for the first time in ten years, while the sixteenth green has been improved and a new path built from the green.

The club house was also redecorated prior to opening day. Tournament plans and special events at the club will be announced from time to time during the summer months.

Tigers Crush Louisville, 12-5

Louisville, Ky., (AP)—The Detroit Tigers sharpened their batting eyes yesterday by banging out 16 hits to overwhelm the Louisville Colonels 12 to 5.

The exhibition game with the American Association club completed the Tigers' training for their American League opener with Cleveland in Detroit tomorrow.

Mound Work
Ted Gray, Virgil Trucks and Ray Herbert worked on the mound for the Tigers. After a shaky start, Gray settled down to escape with only one run scored off him.

Trucks also had a shaky start, a walk, double and single producing two runs in the fourth. But he had little trouble in the next two innings.

Herbert gave up only two singles. But both of them came in the same inning with a wild pitch, and caused him to be nicked for a run in the eighth. The Colonels got another run in the ninth when Herbert walked three, filling the bases with one out.

Johnny Lipon and Jerry Priddy paced the Tiger hitting with three hits each.

Latest Suit Worries Owners

Cincinnati (AP)—A court suit which would knock the vital reserve clause prop from under organized baseball had Major League club owners concerned again yesterday.

Suits attacking the reserve provision are nothing new, but baseball's brass has never have taken them too lightly once they popped up in court.

Clause
Under the clause, once a club in organized baseball signs a player, other clubs have to adopt a strictly "hand-off" policy until the player is let go or his contract obtained by trade or sale. And only a free agent ballplayer can shop around for a new baseball employer.

The latest suit was filed in U. S. District Court Saturday for Jack Corbett and the El Paso Baseball Club, Inc., of Texas. Besides challenging the reserve clause, it asks $300,000 from A. B. Chandler, both as an individual and as baseball commissioner, George M. Trautman, head of the minor leagues, and officials of the Cincinnati National League team.

Shows Crowd
Mrs. Zaharias showed why she was a champion and the greatest woman athlete of all time. Saturday she had wound up a puny twelfth in a field of 34 in the opening 18 holes when she shot a terrible 83. But there just was no doubt about what she was going to do yesterday. Only once was she in a trap and she got out of that to still bag a birdie three.

Mrs. Zaharias has two opportunities to set a new competitive course record. She missed a 12-footer for an eagle on number 17 and she missed a six-footer for a birdie on number 18.

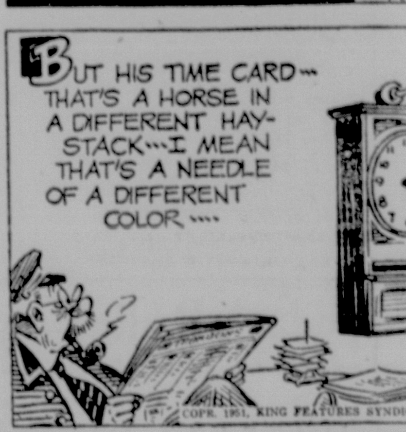

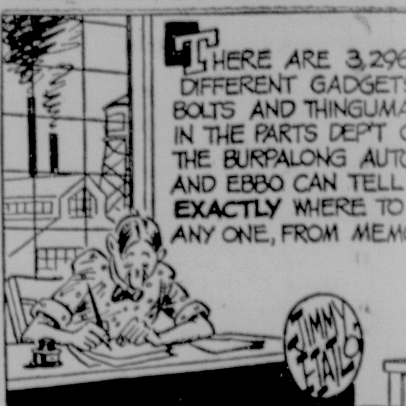

She never had to try for any long putts—she was always too close to the cup on her terrific approaches.

Defending champion in the Weathervane, in which she won $7,450 of a possible $8,000 last year, Mrs. Zaharias moves on with the field to Pebble Beach, Calif., May 5-6 for the second 36 holes.

Miss Berg wound up in second place here yesterday with a closing 76 that gave her a 36-hole total of 153 and $500.

Betty Jameson of San Antonio was third with 155 and won $300.

Games In Washington, Cincinnati Open 1950 Season In American, National Leagues Today

New York, (AP)—Throw out the exhibition standings. They start playing for keeps today in both major leagues.

Two games today and a full eight-game schedule tomorrow provide a fidgety nation with a whiff of cheer. Some 300,000 are expected to attend with millions watching or listening on television and radio.

Down the long 154-game stretch to September 30 will come the answers to baseball's jigsaw. How good are the New York Giants? Will the Red Sox finally win? Can Casey Stengel make it three straight? Is Mickey Mantle a new DiMaggio?

Herbert gave up only two singles. But both of them came in the same inning with a wild pitch, and caused him to be nicked for a run in the eighth. The Colonels got another run in the ninth when Herbert walked three, filling the bases with one out.

Johnny Lipon and Jerry Priddy paced the Tiger hitting with three hits each.

Clears Bases
Outfielder Sabath Mele and infielder Gene Verble each singled before Michaels cleared the bases with his circuit clouter.

The National leaguers went scoreless until the eighth inning when Catcher Eddie Fitz Gerald made it home on George Metkovich's single. The last Pittsburgh tally came in the ninth after Jack Phillips, first baseman, doubled and then scored when George Strickland forced Wally Westlake of the Pirates who had singled.

Hazleton Coach Dies

You start getting the first hints today in games at Washington and Cincinnati, designed to get the jubilee season off to a rush.

Southpaw Harry Truman turns from the military to the sports world to throw out the first ball at Griffith Stadium today for the New York-Washington opener. After the President gets through, Bob Kuzava (9-10), a faster southpaw, will take up the job of facing Yank rookie Tom Morgan, a surprise choice over Ed Lopat. Morgan had a 17-8 record with Birmingham last season.

Big Crowds
Clark Griffith expects 33,000 fans to greet the Senators who have first division hopes after their surprise fifth-place finish of last year. The game launches the league's fifty-first season.

Mantle, the most highly-publicized rookie since Clint Hartung, is expected to be in the Yankee outfield for his first big league start.

Cincinnati, given special dispensation for an early opener in the league's seventy-sixth year, beats 15). Much is expected of the Reds after their fine last half season in '50. Nobody knows what to expect from Branch Rickey at Pittsburgh except Ralph Kiner at first base and maybe a lefthand catcher.

Once the special openers are over, the leagues go into a full schedule tomorrow featured by a Yankee-Boston Red Sox series at Yankee Stadium and a Phillies-Brooklyn series at Ebbets field.

The Yank-Red Sox clash is significant because the two clubs generally are picked to fight it out for the pennant with Cleveland. Inability to win on the road and failure to beat New York handicuffed the power-laden Red Sox the last three years.

Ruttman Wins At Williams Grove
Williams Grove, Pa., (AP)—Troy Ruttman, of Ontario, Calif., captured the feature 30-lap AAA big car auto race on the half-mile speedway here yesterday.

Speed
Ruttman zoomed around the dirt track in 13 minutes, 39.57 seconds in his Agajanian Offy.

Duane Carter, of Fresno, Calif., was second; Bill Schindler, of Freeport, L. I., third, and Tommy Hinzersht, of Reading, was fourth.

Games In Washington, Cincinnati Open 1950 Season In American, National Leagues Today

By Jack Hand
New York, (AP)—Throw out the exhibition standings. They start playing for keeps today in both major leagues.

Two games today and a full eight-game schedule tomorrow provide a fidgety nation with a

Cincinnati—Crosley Field Seating Capacity—30,000

whiff of cheer. Some 300,000 are expected to attend with millions watching or listening on television and radio.

Down the long 154-game stretch to September 30 will come the answers to baseball's jigsaw. How good are the New York Giants? Will the Red Sox finally win? Can Casey Stengel make it three straight? Is Mickey Mantle a new DiMaggio?

Herbert gave up only two singles. But both of them came in the same inning with a wild pitch, and caused him to be nicked for a run in the eighth. The Colonels got another run in the ninth when Herbert walked three, filling the bases with one out.

Johnny Lipon and Jerry Priddy paced the Tiger hitting with three hits each.

Clears Bases
Outfielder Sabath Mele and infielder Gene Verble each singled before Michaels cleared the bases with his circuit clouter.

The National leaguers went scoreless until the eighth inning when Catcher Eddie Fitz Gerald made it home on George Metkovich's single. The last Pittsburgh tally came in the ninth after Jack Phillips, first baseman, doubled and then scored when George Strickland forced Wally Westlake of the Pirates who had singled.

Hazleton Coach Dies
Hazleton, Pa., (AP)—Rex Antinazzi, 31, Hazleton High school baseball coach, died Saturday in Hazleton State Hospital after a lengthy illness. He once played third base for Lancaster Red Roses in the class "B" Interstate League.

Browns Clip Cardinals In City Series

St. Louis, (AP)—With Sherm Lollar batting in four of the runs—two of them on a homer—the St. Louis Browns battled to a 9 to 6 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals in their final spring exhibition game yesterday.

Lollar singled home one of the Browns' two runs in the first, homered in the sixth, and doubled in the eighth. He also singled and later scored in the third.

Homers
Ken Wood batted in two other runs, one on his four-bagger in the third. Pinchhitter Hal Rice homered for the Cards in the seventh.

The Cardinals' five pitchers and the Browns' two had a hard time finding the plate, giving up 19 walks altogether. Winner Lou Sleater walked the greatest number—seven—but he lasted five innings, longer than the other hurlers.

It gave the City Series to the Browns with three victories out of the four games—two of them at Houston, Tex., last week. This was the nineteenth year the Browns have won the series since it started. The Redbirds have ten triumphs and the teams split even 17 times.

Hockey Series Even
Pittsburgh (AP)—The Cleveland Barons and the Pittsburgh Hornets will meet tomorrow night at the Gardens in the fifth game of their best-of-seven series for the American Hockey League Calder Cup championship.

Capture Soccer Crown
Pittsburgh (AP)—The Heidelberg Tornadoes upset the Chicago Spartans 5-1 to win the western division title and qualify for the finals of the National Open Cup Soccer series.

Newfoundland — Ladies of Unit 859, American Legion Auxiliary, entertained members of the local American Legion post at a party celebrating the post's fifth birthday anniversary in the Legion Home, Greentown, Thursday night.

As a birthday present, the women presented the Legionnaires a letter cancelling a $200 loan made by the unit a few years ago during remodeling operations at the home.

Mrs. Robert Marsh, president of the auxiliary, presented the gift to Don Walter, commander of the post, at a dinner which followed the semi-monthly meeting of the post.

SPCA Invites Residents To Save Paper For Shelter Fund

Residents of Monroe county who are saving paper, magazines and rags for the shelter committee of Monroe County Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals are asked to call Stroudsburg 323 and collections will be made promptly by members.

Funds derived from paper drives and designated shelter fund donations will be utilized to establish an SPCA-operated animal shelter for the county.

Officials of the society and members of the committee said yesterday it will take a great deal of effort and cooperation from everybody in the region to maintain the paper-drive financing project.

Need for the shelter is increasing every day, they said. This county is one of a very few which does not provide animal shelter quarters for protection of pets pending the time they are adopted in new homes, or returned after straying from their old homes.

Officers emphasized the SPCA

works for the benefit of the entire county by placing dogs and other animals in proper homes and by eliminating ownerless strays from destroying property.

2 Men Drown In Choppy Waters Of Lake Wallenpaupack

Waves There Highest Ever Experienced

Wallenpaupack (AP) — Two men were believed drowned yesterday in the choppy waters of Lake Wallenpaupack after their fishing boat was upset by waves lake officials said were "the highest ever experienced."

Reported lost in the lake waters were Amos Noble, 39, of 2402 Northampton St., Easton, and Harry Confer, 35, of 528½ New St., Allentown, Pa. They were with a party of fishermen including Noble's father, Amos Noble Sr., who owns a cottage at the lake.

Dr. Peter Migliorino, of Scranton, told state police he saw a boat capsized by the high waves.

Migliorino said he saw one man clinging to the overturned boat and heard calls for help.

He notified lake superintendent Robert Tragus, who reported the boat was rented earlier in the day by Noble and Confer.

State police started an investigation, but the water was too rough to carry the search onto the lake. They said they will begin a search for the bodies of the two men today, if conditions permit.

Earlier, three other fishermen were saved from the lake's icy waters after their boat capsized.

Vote On Tax May Go Over To Next Week

Harrisburg (AP) — The Republican House leadership agreed yesterday to postpone any action on attempting to pass the once-defeated personal income tax levy until at least Wednesday.

Philadelphia's city charter election on Tuesday, taking away Philadelphia's Republican and Democratic House delegations for electioneering work, brought about the decision.

The administration is continuing on the counting on the support of the 12 Quaker City GOP House members to vote for the one-half of one per cent income levy designed to raise $119,000,000 in the next two years.

Speaker Herbert P. Sorg (R-Elk) said that although Wednesday would be the earliest the administration would seek a decision on the income tax, it was quite possible that a decisive vote would not be taken until the following week.

The administration's strategy hinges entirely on wooing at least two more GOP insurgents to vote for the levy. A GOP House caucus last week saw only 103 members get on the line for support of the administration move.

Gov. John S. Fine, leveling an other blast at his budget critics, said that "some people who are for a sales tax are trying to scuttle the income tax program."

There are no other practical broad base taxes available which would raise the amount of money necessary to run the State government for the next two years," Fine declared.

He emphasized that $163,000,000 is needed in new taxes to meet higher State costs the next two years.

Three Rescued From Icy Lake Wallenpaupack After Clinging To Capsized Boat 90 Minutes

Wallenpaupack — Three fishermen were saved from the icy waters of Lake Wallenpaupack, Wayne county yesterday morning after having clung to their capsized boat one and a half hours.

Rescued were: Louis Meikrantz, 20, of 1419 Chew Ave., Philadelphia, and Albert Ford, 46, and Russell Hetzel, 22, both of Hatboro, Pa.

They left Seeley's landing in a rowboat with an outboard motor attached at 6 a. m. yesterday.

They were a mile and half from shore when a succession of three waves caused the boat to capsize an hour later.

The trio clung to the overturned boat until they were sighted by other fishermen at 8:30 a. m. and were assisted to Peapack.

Those in the rescue party were: George Bauscher and John Peters both of Allentown; Ernest Benfield, Gilbertville, and Paul S. Frankusis, of Boyertown.

Dr. Richard Porter, of Hawley, was called and also firemen from the Hawley fire department headed by Chief Patrick Monahan, who brought a pulmotor with him.

In meantime, Hetzel, who was weak from exhaustion and had almost lost his grip on the boat, according to State Trooper Leo Perwein, of the Milford barracks was subjected to artificial respiration to which he responded. Meikrantz and Ford were said to have suffered only slightly from exposure.

Killer Of Three At Ashley Is Arrested In California

Red Wood City, Calif. (AP) — Charles Edmund Rovinsky, 24, wanted for questioning in connection with the slaying of his wife and two members of her family at Ashley, Pa., was arrested yesterday by San Mateo county sheriff's deputies.

Deputy William Regan said Rovinsky carried a .38 caliber pistol when arrested at a drive-in restaurant at Edgemar, a seacoast village about four miles south of San Francisco. He did not resist.

Officers said Rovinsky had been sought since March 14 in connection with the death of his wife, Margaret, and her father—Andrew Stuka, 55—and brother-in-law, George Tomko, 33.

Police said Rovinsky's capture was made possible by the quick, cool action of Mrs. Jayne Wood of Edgemar.

Police Chief William Regan of Sharp Park said she had been notified to be on the lookout for Rovinsky after Pennsylvania authorities said he might try to contact "friends in this area." Rovinsky had known Mrs. Wood's husband, Belington, during World War Two.

When Rovinsky called at the Wood home, Regan said, Mrs. Wood told him her husband was asleep. She sent him to a nearby drive-in to wait for her husband to awaken.

Actually Wood was on his way to San Diego and Mrs. Wood was alone with her 18-months-old daughter. When Rovinsky left Mrs. Wood called police.

Regan immediately notified the San Mateo county sheriff's office here and four deputies were sent to Sharp Park. They entered the drive-in with Regan, walked up to Rovinsky, who sat drinking coffee, and flashed their badges.

He admitted he was Rovinsky and surrendered without resistance.

Later, a deputy said, Rovinsky told them he had blacked out just before the Ashley shooting and did not remember anything for a couple of days.

Farmer Kills Family Of 5

Graysville, Man. (AP) — A 31-year-old farmer gave himself up to the Royal Canadian Mounted police Saturday night and told them he had slain his father, mother, two sisters and a brother with a high-powered rifle.

John Henry Schmidt was taken to Winnipeg, 50 miles northeast of here, and charged with murder.

The dead are: Henry Schmidt, 71, the father, Sarah, 68, his wife, Mary, 46, and Olga, 35, his daughters, and David, 38, his son.

Inspector W. M. Brady said John Henry Schmidt had made no coherent statement.

Coroner H. W. C. North said the bodies were found widely separated, inside the Schmidt farm home and outside, as if the killer stalked his victims wherever they tried to hide.

Thieves Make Off With $300,000 In Park Avenue Loot

New York (AP) — Former film actress Hope Hampton was burglarized of $300,000 worth of jewelry, $15,000 in cash and a $15,000 mink coat yesterday, police reported.

The jewels, coat and cash were taken from the ransacked four-story and basement dwelling of Miss Hampton at 1145 Park Avenue.

Police said the burglary took place in the early morning hours while Miss Hampton, her maid and butler were absent from the luxurious home. They said the butler, Charles Murray, told them he found the front door open when he returned at 3 a. m.

The jewelry and $10,000 of the cash were taken from a small safe in a closet of Miss Hampton's second floor bedroom. The mink coat had been hanging in the same closet. The safe, 15 by 15 by 18 inches, was carted away by the thieves. Police said the other cash was taken from a closet in a fourth-floor guest room.

Smoke-Screen Shields Reds From Aircraft

Tokyo, Monday, (AP) — Allied forces jammed against Red positions for limited gains today on the western and central Korean war fronts. Communist resistance behind a vast covering smoke-screen was spotty.

A delayed field dispatch reported Yanggu, on the eastern tip of the Hwachon reservoir in central Korea, was captured by an Allied tank-infantry task force yesterday.

The United Nations force rolled through an artillery barrage and Red mortar fire before seizing the town. Yanggu, about six miles north of Parallel 38, was a strong-point in Red defenses around Hwachon reservoir.

Far East Air Forces reported destruction or damage to 314 Red planes since the Reds invaded South Korea last June 25. Allied fighters and bombers knocked down 147 Russian-built jet fighters, the Air Force said.

FEAF placed Allied losses at 184 — only 11 of them in air combat.

The Air Force reported seven Russian-built jet MIG-15s attacked a flight of American F-80 jets in northwest Korea yesterday — the first appearance of Red fighters in three days. No damage on either side was reported.

AP Correspondent Jim Becker reported Yanggu was deserted when the Allied force entered. Tank shells had exploded an ammunition dump among the shattered ruins.

Becker reported another Allied force beat off a Red counter-attack yesterday afternoon north-east of Yanggu.

On the western front, Allied patrols punched into Red positions below Chorwon, Chorwon, 17 miles north of Parallel 38, is the western anchor of Communist defenses and believed an assembly point for thousands of Red reinforcements.

As U. S. Eighth Army headquarters, AP Correspondent Robert Euston reported the Reds had started brush fires to obscure their movements from Allied aircraft. The smoke pall may be hiding preparations for a massive Red counter-offensive.

Smoke billowed over the central front in clouds rising to 8,500 feet. It appeared that the Reds were adding to this shield by use of smudge pots.

Chinese and Korean Reds battled bitterly to block a three-pronged Allied drive yesterday on the hills below Chorwon. The hills were littered with Communist dead after a heavy Allied artillery barrage.

Gen. MacArthur Winging Way Across Pacific After Giant Hero's Farewell From Japs

Tokyo, Monday, (AP) — Gen. Douglas MacArthur started the long journey home today with a hero's farewell from the Japanese to whom he came as a conqueror five years and seven months ago.

From the moment he left his home in the American embassy at 6:28 a. m. until his silvery Constellation, the "Bataan" took off at 7:21 a. m. (5:21 p. m. EST Sunday), the general's departure was a brilliant pageant.

It was replete with military pomp and protocol, with honor guards and blaring bands, swishing jet planes, saluting officers and cheering bowing and gaping Japanese by the hundreds and hundreds of thousands.

The 71-year-old soldier statesman was relieved from all his command April 11 by President Truman because of a disagreement over how to fight the Korean war and how to contain Communist aggression in the Far East.

Now he is homeward bound, to great public welcomes in Honolulu, San Francisco and New York, and to address a joint session of Congress on his policy views. He expected to reach Honolulu about midnight Sunday, Honolulu time (5 a. m. Monday, EST), but the remainder of his schedule was not definite as to time.

Since the dismissal, MacArthur had kept himself secluded from the public until this morning, when he took his place in a waiting black limousine beside his devoted wife, Jean, and 13 year-old son, Arthur.

Stiffly erect and without a flicker, he saluted the 30-man honor guard representing all branches of the U. S. armed forces as his car rolled from the embassy grounds onto the rutted, Tokyo streets where an estimated 500,000 to 1,000,000 Japanese awaited.

His staff members and domestic staff who accompanied him followed in six other cars while 10,000 Japanese police lined the processional route—not for security, they said, but as a goodbye tribute to their conquering hero.

Martin Sets 12:30 Time For Session

Washington (AP) — Gen. Douglas MacArthur will get the opportunity to tell Congress on Thursday his side of the disagreement which led President Truman to dismiss him.

Rep. Joseph Martin of Massachusetts, House Republican leader, said MacArthur would address a joint meeting of the House and Senate at 12:30 p. m. that day.

A formal invitation to appear before the two bodies still has to be acted upon.

President Truman removed MacArthur last week from his post as supreme commander of Allied forces in the Pacific as well as commander of United Nations forces in Korea.

Mr. Truman said he had come to the conclusion that MacArthur was "unable to give his wholehearted support" to the policies being followed by the United States and the United Nations in the war in Korea.

MacArthur, who went into Japan as a conqueror five years ago, is now enroute by plane to the United States, accompanied by his wife and son.

The general got a hero's tribute from the Japanese as he departed. As he headed for this country, a land he hasn't seen in 14 years of Far Eastern military service, MacArthur faced welcoming ceremonies of various degree from the cities he will touch.

MacArthur asked that there be no formal speeches in the ceremony. Seventy-one years of age, the general will face a busy week. The long flight across the Pacific from Tokyo was to be broken by a 24-hour stopover at Honolulu. From San Francisco MacArthur will fly to Washington, address Congress on Thursday, then fly to New York.

He is not expected to make any appearances before congressional committees until possibly the following week.

Reached by telephone at his home in North Attleboro, Mass., Martin said "the twelve-thirty appearance before Congress is definite."

Martin is author of a resolution by which Congress, probably Tuesday, formally will invite MacArthur to address it. Martin is among those named in the resolution to make arrangements for the joint meeting. The others are House Democratic Leader McCormack (Mass.), Senate Democratic Leader McFarland (Ariz.) and Senate Republican leader Wherry (Nebr.).

Earlier it had been expected that MacArthur would not reach Washington until Friday, after first stopping in New York City.

Basically the split is over the President's policy of confining fighting in Asia to Korea, which he says is the way to head off World War Three, and MacArthur's opposing demand for authority to hit the Communist enemy across the Manchurian border and to use Chiang Kai-shek's Chinese Nationalist troops for a second front. There is a long-range disagreement over MacArthur's contention that the vital theater of the fight against Red aggression now is Asia, and the administration theory that the real settlement hinges on Europe.

Cain Calls For War Declaration

New York, (AP) — Sen. Harry P. Cain (R-Wash.) yesterday called for a U. S. declaration of war against all enemies of the United Nations in Korea, including countries "contiguous to Korea."

(Korea is bordered on the north largely by the Manchurian part of Communist China, but also adjoins a narrow strip of Russian Siberia on the east coast.)

He said he will introduce a resolution in the Senate Tuesday for a declaration of war.

"I intend to make such a resolution to find out where we are and where, in God's name, we are going," he declared.

Rotation Started

Tokyo, Monday, (AP) — Many American servicemen would like to go home. Perhaps that prompted this comment from an airman watching General MacArthur's takeoff: "It looks like rotation has started for sure."

YELLOW FURY, aided by strong winds, swept over this quaint summer home yesterday near Cherry Valley Methodist church. It burned to the ground. The New York owners left approximately an hour before flames were discovered by Harold L. Dennis, Broadheadsville. (Photo taken by W. L. Hoffman, 1143 W. Main St., Stroudsburg.)

Wind-Swept Flames Destroy Summer Home In Cherry Valley Shortly After Owners Leave

Cherry Valley — Violent gusts of wind teamed up with hungry flames here yesterday and completely destroyed a wooden summer home a quarter of a mile south of Cherry Valley Methodist church.

Fire was discovered at approximately 3 p. m. by Harold L. Dennis, Broadheadsville storekeeper. Both Stroudsburg Fire Co. and Stroud Township Fire Co. were summoned.

At first no flames were noticeable as smoke poured from all parts of the frame structure, which had been constructed only about three years ago.

Bittenbender To Address Sportsmen

The Pocono Mountains Sportsmen's association's April "fishermen's meeting" will be held at the Mount Pocono fire house on Wednesday night. Paul Bittenbender, member of the Pennsylvania Fish Commission, will be speaker.

Mr. Bittenbender will discuss stocking problems, fish propagation, reforestation along main streams and their tributaries and many other subjects of interest to sportsmen.

The association has placed several refuse barrels in conspicuous spots along various streams for use by sportsmen. The action was prompted by complaints from landowners about careless disposal of papers, tin cans, and other debris.

Club officials hope the containers will help eliminate this practice since it is a threat against keeping properties open to fishermen.

Dan Walton and Gene Mutchler, co-chairmen of the association's game committee, asked yesterday that all available members report at Scotrun today to complete the pheasant pen.

Police Clear Up Series Of Recent Burglaries In Region

Thefts Solved During Probe Of Stolen Car

A stolen car incident on Saturday resulted in clearing up a series of burglaries in the Stroudsburg, Upper Mt. Bethel township, Northampton county, and Columbia, N. J., Chief of Police Arthur Swink of the East Stroudsburg department reported yesterday.

Two juveniles are implicated in the series of thefts along with two adults, one of whom has not been apprehended. Committed to the Monroe county jail is Charles Sidney Samsbach, 19, of 75 Washington St., East Stroudsburg, who is employed in a Stroudsburg garage. One of the juveniles, aged 17, is in the juvenile department of the jail, while the other one is in custody of relatives, police reported.

Samsbach pleaded guilty at a hearing before Justice of the Peace Herbert G. Bonser, of East Stroudsburg, who also made the disposition of the juveniles. Officer Edward Harloe, is the prosecutor.

Robberies cleared up included those at Walter Peeney's Gulf station, Washington and Courtland Sts., East Stroudsburg; the Kelper laundry, Stroudsburg; two service stations in Upper Mt. Bethel township, Northampton county, and one in Columbia, N. J.

The break came through the theft of the 1937 sedan owned by Charles Werkheiser, 139 E. Broad St., East Stroudsburg, which had been parked in front of his home. The theft took place after 1 a. m. Saturday, it developed.

When Mr. Werkheiser arose Saturday morning and discovered his car was missing, he went to the police station where he informed officer Donald Quick of the theft. Asked who had been at his home Friday night, Werkheiser named the juvenile who resides in Stroudsburg.

Officer Quick went to the youth's home, got him out of bed and took him to the East Stroudsburg police station, where he was questioned. The youth informed the officer he had taken the car after 1 a. m. Saturday. He said he drove to the vicinity of Columbia, N. J., where he was forced off the highway by a machine approaching in the opposite direction. He crashed into a pole damaging the vehicle to the extent of about $200. He was alone and escaped injuries, he told the police.

When Chief Swink went on duty, he continued questioning the juvenile when Samsbach was implicated in a series of robberies. Samsbach was brought to the police station where, after about four hours of questioning, he admitted his part in the other burglaries. Officer Edward Harloe and Pfc. Alexander Kearns, of the Stroudsburg barracks of State Police, also took part in the questioning of the defendant.

While an officer was sent after Samsbach, the juvenile admitted to Chief Swink that he and Samsbach had been implicated in the theft of some $117 cash and checks from the Gulf service station in East Stroudsburg.

Chief Swink reported that Samsbach admitted he broke the window in the lavatory of the service station, leaned through the opening and took the money bag which had been secreted in the towel rack by the attendant when he closed the station Saturday night, March 31.

Samsbach is said to have informed the police that he had used his dad's car the night of the robbery and that he, the juvenile and another person, not identified at this time, drove a few miles up Route 209 where the money was divided into three equal parts. They burned the checks of $38 and $2 each and money bag. He said they went to a Stroudsburg diner, ate, and went home to bed.

Trooper Kearns and Officer Harloe questioned Samsbach as to other robberies when after some three hours' grilling, he admitted his part in the other robberies, the officers said.

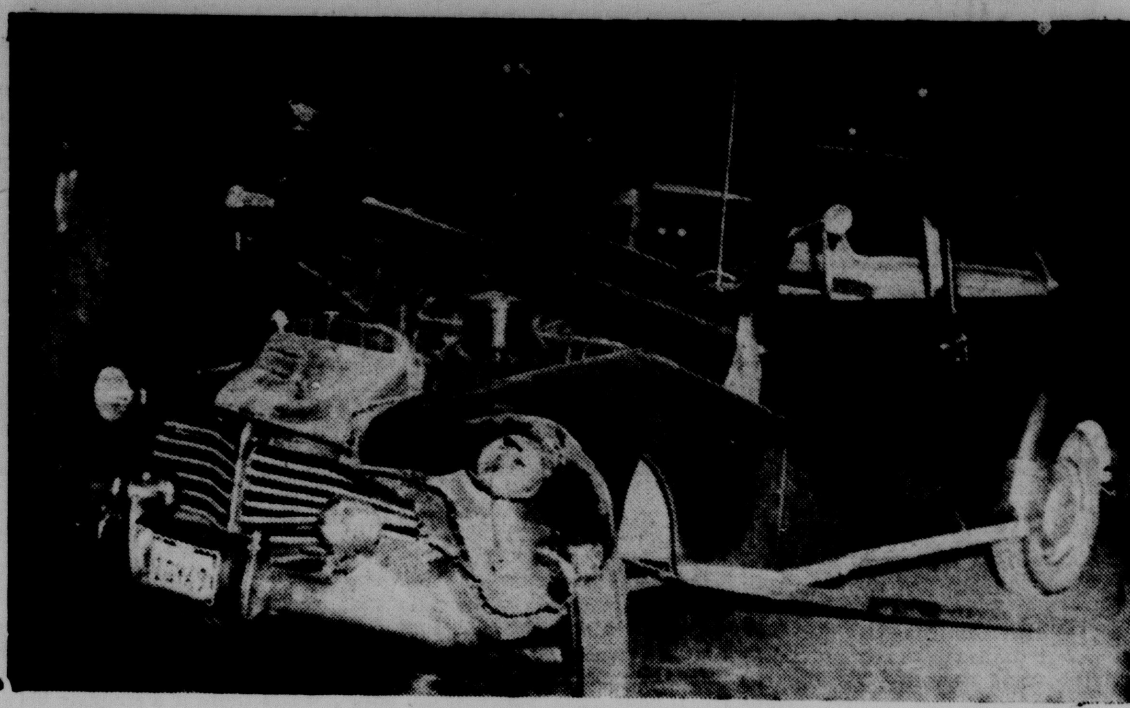

Samsbach told police he and the juvenile implicated in the car theft and East Stroudsburg gas station, had entered the Kelper laundry through a garage door and collected clothing of all descriptions, estimated value of $300, between 10:30 and 11 p. m. March 28. The material police say was placed in an old car belonging to the defendant which was parked on Elizabeth St., East Stroudsburg, in the rear of the high school stadium.

Chief of Police James F. McConnell, of the Stroudsburg police force, was called into the case Saturday afternoon when he was given custody of the clothing alleged to have been taken at the Kelper laundry.

As a result of the grilling, the police say they were told by Samsbach that he and two juveniles, one of whom was implicated in the cases in the Stroudsburg, the other being in custody of relatives, had taken part in the robberies in Upper Mt. Bethel and Columbia, N. J.

The Gateway service station in Upper Mt. Bethel was entered where a carton of chewing gum and tools, including a couple of pipe wrenches, a screw driver, were taken, police say.

The defendant, according to police, stated that they were of the AUTOMOBILE OF ELSIE CRAMER, East Stroudsburg RD 3, shown above after having been in collision with the car operated by Robert L. VanBuskirk, of East Stroudsburg, at Seventh and Main Sts., Stroudsburg, early Sunday morning. Front of machine is extensively damaged. One persons was slightly injured in the crash.

Two-Car Collision Occurs At Main-Seventh Intersection

One person was injured in a two-car motor crash at Seventh and Main Sts., Stroudsburg, at 12:20 a. m. Sunday. Damage to the machines was not extensive, Officer William Borger, who investigated, reported.

Elsie Cramer, 47, of East Stroudsburg RD 3, was alone in her car which she was driving west on Main street. She was making a left turn into S. Seventh St., when the vehicle struck the front of another machine moving east, owned and operated by Robert Van Buskirk, 28, of 118 Barnum St., East Stroudsburg.

The Cramer woman escaped injury, the officer said. In the car with Van Buskirk were Martha Eppley, 37, of 27 Washington St., East Stroudsburg, who suffered a cut on the bridge of her nose and forehead and was treated at the office of Dr. Marshall R. Metzgar, and Lorraine Hunt, 24, of 146 1/2 Day St., East Stroudsburg, who wasn't hurt.

The frame of the Cramer car was bent, left front fender, headlight and grille damaged to the extent of $150. The officer estimated $50 damage to the Van Buskirk vehicle, bent frame and left front fender and hubcap. There was no prosecution, the officer stated.

The board also has awarded a contract to LaBar's Rhododendron Nursery for the planting of barberry hedge around the new dam on Little Pocono creek to the rear of the high school.

Brooksideville — The vacation trip of Miss Catherine E. Long, 45, a checker employed in the kitchen of the Inn at Buck Hill, was ruined when she was seriously hurt in a motor accident at 10:00 a. m. yesterday. Hospitalized at the Monroe County General hospital, East Stroudsburg, her condition was pronounced as "fair" last night.

Miss Long was en route to Pine Grove, Pa., where she intended spending her vacation, when the practically new station wagon she was driving went out of control on Route 209, about two miles west of this place, police said. There were only 2,600 miles showing on the vehicle, according to State police of the local substation.

Police said that Miss Long told them she was driving between 35 and 40 miles an hour when she lost control. The machine struck a culvert and came to halt when it hit a stump of a tree, throwing her out of the vehicle.

Doctors at the hospital stated she had back injuries, injured ankle, laceration of the head and concussion. X-ray pictures were taken but had not been fully diagnosed when physicians were contacted. Miss Long was alone in the vehicle at the time of the accident.

Congregation Opposes Track Near Church

Gilbert—The congregation of the Salem Evangelical and Reformed church here yesterday adopted a resolution opposing the proposed establishment of a stock-car racing track next to the church property, Rev. Alton Albright, pastor, said yesterday.

The strongly worded resolution, preceding what congregational leaders said would be "legal action" occurred after services and after "a full discussion of the plan to place an automobile stock car race track" next to the church.

The congregation noted that their action follows a similar action taken by the Progressive Women's Club of the West End last week.

Legal advice will be promptly sought to institute whatever action is necessary to halt location of the race track against the church property, officials said.

They indicated they are not seeking to halt racing, as such, but are determined to halt any efforts to establish a track in the proposed location.

Truck Breaks Parking Meter

The parking meter stationed opposite the Western Union telegraph office, S. Seventh St., Stroudsburg, was broken at 3:15 p. m. Sunday when struck by the rear of a truck pulling from the curb.

Officer William Dwyer, who investigated, stated that the meter was knocked off and the station, was bent. The driver of the vehicle was Gerald McElroth, 23, of 117 Sahland Ave., Asheville, N. C. He posted a sum to cover the cost of repairs, the officer stated and was permitted to continue on his trip.

The Untouchable Budget

Governor John S. Fine is drawing a tragic picture of what will happen in Pennsylvania if he doesn't get the $5-a-thousand income tax he is asking the Legislature to approve.

Public schools will suffer; so will hospitals, colleges, State institutions and public health . . . so says Governor Fine.

He adds that if the Legislature fails to pass the income tax, then a State sales tax will be needed in order to carry out the worthy and necessary aims of the State.

"The choice," he says, "is between an income tax or a sales tax."

Not that Mr. Fine excludes the possibility that the State might do as any prudent individual would do in time of financial stress . . . pull in the belt and cut out the frills.

Of course, the voters might not like to see the State economize at the expense of public schools, teachers salaries, hospital appropriations and public health.

But who ever suggested such a move? What's the matter with economizing at the expense of Harrisburg's overloaded political payrolls?

How about cutting out the limousines . . . and chauffeurs . . . for high-ranking officers? How about combing through the budget for the comparatively small dribs and drabs that mount up to millions when they're totalled up?

Mr. Fine's budget is a strange document in some respects. He estimates present State taxes will give the State's General Fund only 680 million dollars in the next two years, as compared with 678½ millions in the last two years.

He makes this estimate in the face of the non-stop inflation that boosts prices, wages, corporate profits and everything else measured in dollars . . . including tax receipts of the Federal Government. Some people think Mr. Fine's income estimated is 60 million dollars too low.

With all the departments under Mr. Fine asking increased funds, the Legislature . . . strangely enough . . . pulled in its belt. It asked for $3,472,935 as compared with $3,760,180 last time.

That's a reduction of 7.6 per cent and if Mr. Fine made a similar scale-down for the entire General Fund, the economies would amount to more than 60 millions.

Increased revenues of 60 millions and 60 millions less spending equals 120 millions . . . or just what Mr. Fine wants from the income tax.

Within the next week or two, the Fine income tax measure will come up a second time for a vote after being defeated two weeks ago.

We say that the Legislature . . . regardless of political makeup . . . should leave the income tax bill on the table while it digs into Governor Fine's untouchable budget to find out why it can't be cut.

All of us know that if either a State sale tax or a State income tax is enacted it will be here to stay. It will be there to be increased year after year . . . an open invitation to Governors with untouchable budgets to sock it on heavier and heavier each year.

We say again Rep. John Shotwell and Senator Montgomery F. Crowe have their mandate from their people. They must not ignore it.

Try And Stop Me

Walter Lowen, head of a well-known employment agency, expected an important client in his office who was very partial to a special brand of cigars. The one place in the neighborhood that carried this brand was that exclusive habitat of movie stars and social arbiters, "21". Lowen summoned a new office boy and started to explain to him the location of "21" and what he'd have to do to take his way past Jimmy, the guardian of the entrance gate.

"You don't have to go through all this," said the new boy loftily. "I've had a charge account there for years." (What's happened to that old capitalist system of ours?)

And in the same vein, Jack Smart, who plays "The Fat Man" in radio and pictures, points out one indubitable advantage of weighing three hundred pounds: you always know where your cigar ashes are going to land.

Hollywood

By Gene Handsaker

Hollywood—A blind woman is serving as technical adviser on a movie these days. Vivica Lindfors is playing a blind girl in "Skid Row". Showing her how is Hazel Hurst, 38, who says she has been totally blind since the wrong drops were put in her eyes three days after her birth.

How to walk—"with sureness yet slowness; with hesitancy when approaching steps," as Miss Hurst describes it. How to set a tray down—"put your left hand down first, to be sure where you are setting it." How to pour water into a pan—"put your fingertips inside the edge; stop pouring when the water reaches them."

Miss Hurst doesn't think a blind person has ever been portrayed accurately on the screen. "They play it so sad. The tone of voice is always played down. They think because we can't see we're stupid or can't hear. They act depressed."

The sightless role, for which Miss Lindfors is wearing opaque contact lenses, depressed her at first. Miss Hurst, who's slender, witty, and cheerful, got her to cheer up for the part.

Miss Hurst and her husband, George Colours (not the actor) sit in the front row at movies. Colours has 5 per cent vision.

"I can see the characters pretty well," he said. "I tell her the action lots of times, but she follows the story pretty well by the dialogue."

Miss Hurst was graduated from Columbia University in 1936, a major in psychiatry and social work, after studying with the help of readers. She studied at schools for the blind in France, Italy, and Germany. With her guide dog, Bonnie, she has traveled 200,000 miles to give lectures and help the blind in industry.

She and her husband trained 300 blind and partly blind persons for Lockheed Aircraft jobs during World War II. "They never had an accident," she said.

In 1939 she established in near-by Arizona, the Hazel Hurst Foundation for the Blind. With public support, it gives away 30 or more German shepherd blind dogs annually. Each dog gets three months' training, plus another month at the Foundation school with its new owner.

These Days -- By George E. Sokolsky

Sokolsky

The Stand We Must Take Mrs. Bulitt writes the editor of the "Louisville Courier-Journal" about me as follows:

"The other night Mr. Sokolsky riddled our government with charges of inefficiency, cunning and a program Red to the teeth. Not content with attacking the present regime, he encompassed the past 18 years.

"This is a free country. We have chosen our leaders. We have free speech. Just how far one may go in attacking his country in time of extreme danger I do not know. There is such a thing as treason. People have been hanged for it."

Yes, people have been hanged for many things and burned at the stake and tortured. But that never solved anybody's problems. It only meant that one person was hurt, but the question of truth remained.

I did not make World War II nor did I compose the compromises of Teheran and Yalta. At most I can report them and their consequences. But even if I did not report them, the consequences would be the same. There are 60,000 casualties in Korea who are witnesses to those consequences.

Someone is to blame for the Korean War. There is a long history of Communism in China, at least 30 years of it. I know many of those men, having seen them grow up from schoolboys to fanatical Marxists. The State Department has called them "Agrarian Reformers", but they were Marxists, their leaders were trained in Russia and whoever says it differently is not telling the truth.

It does no good to try to suppress the truth to save anyone's political skin. What we need to save is our country and our civilization. Our civilization has been developing for some 6,000 years around the hard core of revealed natural law. Really, Mrs. Bulitt, it would matter little if I were hanged; the natural law will survive little folks like us, who may desert the truth to serve our confidence and necessity. No extreme danger faces our country except the danger that our people have departed from our traditions and have deserted their God for a life of ease and softness.

Would you say, Mrs. Bulitt, that I should not report about these matters or should I revel in all the trappings of commissions and fixes and deals and trades which give to our era the title of "the big fix"?

I hope that partisanship does not blind any of us to the moral nihilism into which we have drifted. This nihilism is marked not only by the acceptance of corruption which would have shamed another generation and stirred anger among our people, but also by a lack of personal dignity and propriety even in high places.

We shall, of course, not live long enough to know whether your judgment is correct, or mine. History has its own curious ways of visiting the errors of one generation upon its grandchildren, just as the accumulations of one generation are often enjoyed by another—and are often wasted and destroyed by another.

When a generation shows inadequate respect for natural law, for the laws of God; when adultery becomes a vogue and murder a syndicate, and when children teach their parents, and those who manage the state are not ashamed of corruption—then it is not too courageous to cast aside convenience and to protest and be crucified.

You may say that I take myself and my work too seriously. Yet, since I was a boy at college, three generations of youth have been to war. Throughout the world there is a struggle between those who believe in God's natural law and those who believe in Marx's dialectical materialism. In this fight, sides must be chosen.

Well, I guess President Truman who is to throw out the first ball in Washington Monday got mixed up in a pitching workout and threw out the first general in Tokyo. All I can say is that it looks like a hell of a way to win this Korean ball game. It just goes to show there is no future in the army if you act like you took a war too seriously. It is Mac's own fault. He refused to recognize double talk, indoor debating teams, world politics, British editorials, general snafu and the use of revolving mirrors as important in reaching an objective. His trouble was that he insisted on being MacArthur, the general, and not Houdini, the handcuff king.

He was not a diplomat or a trained smoothie. He could talk out of turn and be a little in-subordinate in the pinches, which can get any soldier into trouble. But there is a big shortage of plain talk these days, if you ask me, Babe, and the higher you go the worse it gets. Which is why it hurts me to see Douglas get the works. To me it is like disciplining a direction sign for being correct or tearing a hole in a map because it shows everything too clear. Joe Stalin would of given anything to capture MacArthur. I guess not even Prada expected Mac would be captured by his own side.

Sergeant Mooney says the next time somebody asks him what we are fighting for in Korea he is going to tell them we are fighting to see how far a general can go in winning a war without being bounced. He could be right. Mac was not God but he was the most colorful, dramatic, inspiring general in the whole picture and, believe me, things help over here in the tough spots. To me he will always be first in war, first in peace and last in the hearts of the politicians and the more timid U. N. delegations.

The Once Over

By H. I. Phillips

Emergency Email On the MacArthur Case

Dear Babe: Well, I guess President Truman who is to throw out the first ball in Washington Monday got mixed up in a pitching workout and threw out the first general in Tokyo. All I can say is that it looks like a hell of a way to win this Korean ball game. It just goes to show there is no future in the army if you act like you took a war too seriously. It is Mac's own fault. He refused to recognize double talk, indoor debating teams, world politics, British editorials, general snafu and the use of revolving mirrors as important in reaching an objective. His trouble was that he insisted on being MacArthur, the general, and not Houdini, the handcuff king.

He was not a diplomat or a trained smoothie. He could talk out of turn and be a little in-subordinate in the pinches, which can get any soldier into trouble. But there is a big shortage of plain talk these days, if you ask me, Babe, and the higher you go the worse it gets. Which is why it hurts me to see Douglas get the works. To me it is like disciplining a direction sign for being correct or tearing a hole in a map because it shows everything too clear. Joe Stalin would of given anything to capture MacArthur. I guess not even Prada expected Mac would be captured by his own side.

Sergeant Mooney says the next time somebody asks him what we are fighting for in Korea he is going to tell them we are fighting to see how far a general can go in winning a war without being bounced. He could be right. Mac was not God but he was the most colorful, dramatic, inspiring general in the whole picture and, believe me, things help over here in the tough spots. To me he will always be first in war, first in peace and last in the hearts of the politicians and the more timid U. N. delegations.

If any war ever needed technical color and a good press, this is it, and Mac gave it them things. Benching him was like taking Mual out with the bases full, scratching Man O'War from a walkover or silencing the biggest mikes on the Voice of America on account of message was getting through too clear. And I don't see what Truman has gained. Mac was a big headache to him. But Harry is now bringing the headache closer to him.

Well, my bet is that if and when he returns to the U. S. A. he will get a reception that will make the Democrats wish he was back to Tokyo or even farther. Even if he tries to discourage it I will bet he will bring on the biggest confetti and ticker tape shortage in history. The confetti sure will drop on Truman's supply lines, reservoirs and bases, regardless of U. N. rules.

It is all very sad, as I think one war at a time is enough and do not like to see them breaking out in every drugstore, saloon, and neighborhood tavern back home over how a war in Asia is being fought. All I hope is that Moscow is not getting too many laughs. I love you more than ever and I guess if I could get called home for talking too much I would start believing fast.

A million kisses, EMIL

My New York

—By Mel Heimer

New York—By the time you bite the tip from your cigar and sit down in the living room to read this, if you read this, it is possible that an announcement will have been made that Uta Hagen will act in George Bernard Shaw's "St. Joan" next autumn on Broadway.

The numerical position of a certain stock may interest you more greatly, or perhaps it is the batting average of Ted Williams in spring training that holds you enthralled—but in the theater, this is big and important news. St. Joan was the play that ultimately and finally elevated Katharine Cornell to the Duse-Behnhardt-Minnie Maddern Fluke shelf, and if it could do that for Miss Kit, it may be as kind to Miss Hagen, who seems as talented as Cornell and even more Junoesque.

Miss Hagen was covered with the grease of make-believe, with a towel spread across her chest and her short blond hair up in curlers, when I interviewed her today in her dressing room at the Lyceum before the matinee of "The Country Girl." In brief, she was a mess. She couldn't have cared less.

It was about living in Greenwich Village that Miss Hagen talked. For 14 years, off and on, she has been a Villager, and she plans no immediate change. Whenever she's in New York, that is; Miss Hagen already has made three year-long tours of the country, in "Othello" and other charades.

There is a legend that the Village is a low and sinful place, infested with opium-eaters, and a further legend that anyone who brings up a child in this neighborhood is a slothful parent. Children, the myth persists, need grassy fields, the old swimmin' hole and conveniently-placed trees from which to fall and break arms.

"I do not," Miss H. said firmly, "consider that my child's upbringing has been neglected. I have a daughter, named Letitia, called Letty. She has spent the major part of her young life living, playing, sleeping and eating in the Village, and I think she is a very fine daughter, indeed. She smokes no marijuana, nor does she swagger around mannishly and throw rocks at me.

"She is somewhat extroverted, it is true, and the other day a boy at school knocked her two front teeth out, but this is less than nothing. She grew up playing in the Washington Square playground, and she is healthy, wise and talented."

The nerve center of the Village is Eighth street, from Fifth to Sixth avenues, a path full of curio shops, dairies, movie houses, bars and delicatessens. On Saturday nights it overflows with tourists looking furtively for The Real Village, and on Sunday morning it lies deserted and smelling of beer, as if with a hangover.

In the daytimes, however, it is a bustling and friendly street, and Letty Ferrer—the product of Miss Hagen's since-terminated marriage to Jose Ferrer, possibly America's foremost actor now—skips along it daily.

The delicatessen man knows now has 120 lawyers on the payroll. Its enforcement officer, Edward Morgan, was chief counsel of the Tydings investigation subcommittee that white-washed charges of Communists in government. Morgan also helped handle the Senate Pearl Harbor investigation for the Democrats.

Washington reporters were described as being lazy by one government official. He said it is necessary to put out press releases because reporters want somebody to do their writing for them. To save his hide he will remain nameless here, although many editors might share his views.

As a wind-up to Washington in the spring it might be well to remind the bureaucrats that since they started spending billions to control inflation, prices, wages, etc., it is costing us on the average 43 per cent more to live today than before the Korean war started.

her, and the super-market clerk saves her healthy heads of lettuce. The soda jerk knows her, and the man who sells papers. She walks up to school in Tenth street, near Wamamakers', and when spring turns the corner, she runs through Washington Square. Who is going to say she is a lost soul?

"We lived for a while uptown," said Miss Hagen, "and the contrast between Sutton Place and Washington Square North is sharp. Downtown, I can let Letty go off by herself. It's so neighborly; people know her and

Looking at Life

By Erich Brandeis

To hear a lot of people in high places, one would think that you and I and most of all of us have become a nation of moral derelicts, that we have lost all our decency, our sense of right and everything that has made America great.

That is, of course, a lot of rot. There is much crime, much crookedness, much immorality going on. There is much more of it than we had twenty years ago.

But in twenty years the U. S. population has increased by more than twenty millions. For the same period government reports show that crime has not increased at all in proportion to the population.

It is, therefore, entirely untrue to say that this country is going morally to the dogs.

When you have MORE people you will have more people of ALL kinds. You will have more bankers, more lawyers, more clerks, more doctors, more crooks.

Crime should not be condoned. But neither should there be any condoning of one of the most atrocious aspects of crime—crooked officials, grafting police, and particularly dishonest law enforcement officers.

That is where you and I come in.

We have been frightfully careless in our civic duty.

This is supposed to be a government by the PEOPLE.

If we, the people, did our duty more conscientiously, there could not be a crooked government, a callous government, an immoral government. Statistics are boring and can also be brazen liars.

But this bit of statistics throws light on much of what is wrong with our country.

At our last Presidential election approximately 48,800,000 people voted, although there were almost 88,000,000 men and women over 21 years of age living in the United States.

Let us assume that ten million of these were aliens, criminals, lunatics or patients too sick to vote.

That means that close to forty million qualified citizens did not do their civic duty—did not go to the polls.

What a difference that might have made in the results—and in the morality of our country!

I wish there were a law that would make voting obligatory.

Is casting one's ballot too high a price to pay for the privilege of living in America?

The greatest privilege of citizenship is the right to elect our representatives.

But that privilege is also an obligation.

Forty million Americans neglecting that duty may well upset our constitution and all that it means.

You may be sure that all the organized gangsters, gamblers, narcotic peddlers, prostitutes and others that befoul our way of life go to the polls and herd their henchmen to the ballot box, and every one of them will vote promptly and as often as he can.

If crooks are elected to office, who is to blame?

The forty million all over the country who do NOT vote—and in State and Municipal government the thousands in each community who are too lazy or too negligent to do their sacred duty.

Portland PTA Has Program On Cancer

Portland—The Portland Parent-Teachers association has a busy schedule for the rest of the month, including finding a president. The other officers were elected at the meeting last Thursday at the school, including Earl Smith, vice president; Mrs. Ralph Ott, secretary; Mrs. Arthur Reagle, treasurer.

The nominating committee was instructed to continue their efforts to find a candidate for president before the May meeting, when the new officers will be installed.

Mrs. Horace Rusling, present president, presided at the meeting. Announcement was made of the spring conference of PTA groups on May 5 at the Belfast church, when the new officers will go as delegates.

An invitation was received from the Roosevelt PTA of Bangor to attend a joint meeting on April 18 in the high school.

A card party will be held at the Portland school on Saturday April 21 under the auspices of the PTA. Parents are asked to donate prizes and send them to school with their children.

Open house will be held on Thursday, May 10, which is the regular PTA meeting night.

Mrs. Augustus Garis and Mrs. Stephen Kish were appointed as an auditing committee.

The program was devoted to cancer. Mrs. Everett Hughes, program chairman, introduced Mrs. James Weidman Jr., a representative of the Northampton County Cancer society, who told where the clinics and detection centers are located in Northampton, and of their work. They are open to anyone for examination, with or without appointment, she said.

John Garis, of Bethlehem showed two sound films on cancer, and Dr. Eugene A. Rushin, of Portland, stressed the importance of time in the treatment of cancer. With early detection, cure is possible through surgery, X-ray, or radium, he said. Dr. Rushin answered many questions.

Saylorsburg Progressive Women Name Members To Committees For Coming Year

Saylorsburg—The Progressive Woman's Club of Saylorsburg held their last regular meeting Wednesday night at the fire hall in Saylorsburg. The president, Mrs. Anna M. Serfas, presided. Mrs. Frank Schick, music chairman, introduced Mrs. Fitch, instructor at Liberty High, Bethlehem, and a group of teen-agers, known as "12 plus" who entertained for about 45 minutes with a number of piano-accompanied selections.

After the business meeting Mrs. Eugene Martin, teacher at East Stroudsburg High school showed colored slides with the assistance of Mrs. Floyd Shafer, on her travels in Norway, Sweden and Denmark, telling of the customs and habits of those people, and emphasizing the care taken of the younger generation.

During the business session, the annual banquet was announced to be held at Chestnut Hill Inn, between Brodheads and Saylorsburg, May 9, by Mrs. George Hafler, chairman of arrangements.

The county meeting will be held April 19, at Buck Hill for which reservations should be in this week.

Mrs. Ann Shafer told the chest X-ray, which will take place for this section, May 15, at Chestnut Hill High school. Anyone and everyone are urged to take this opportunity.

A liberal donation was given the Cancer Drive fund, which was explained by Mrs. Lizzie Fetherman.

A Friendship Book was completed by Mrs. Willard Raseley and Mrs. Graydon Praetorius, and will be sent to Australia, to interest woman's clubs of that country.

Mrs. Fetherman, past president of the club and past county president, installed the following officers: President, Mrs. Marvin Krome; vice president, Mrs. Elmer Veety; recording secretary, Mrs. Theodore Thompson; financial secretary, Mrs. Andrew Shawnee—A three-woman crew to man the telephone for the Shawnee Fire Company from 7 a. m. to 5 p. m. was named at the meeting of the fire company auxiliary last week at Worthington hall. They will assist the fire chief in notifying firemen who work out of hearing of the fire siren.

The necessity of such action was shown in a big fire several weeks ago at a time when most of the firemen were at work or away from the village. Mrs. Gordon Savage, Mrs. Ross Fuller, and Mrs. Sterling Walters, who live in the vicinity of the firehouse were named to this new responsibility.

The group voted to turn $300 over to the use of the firemen. Officers for the auxiliary were elected at the meeting. Mrs. Arthur Smith was re-elected as president; Mrs. Richard Lee, vice president; Mrs. Marcus Decker, trustee; Mrs. Eugene Emmerich, corresponding secretary; Miss Betty Treible, recording secretary; Mrs. Omar Michaels, treasurer.

Preceding the business meeting Mrs. Marion Fields, state nurse explained the coming X-ray program when a car pool will be formed so that every adult may take advantage of the free chest X-rays the week of May 14.

Mrs. Walter Hope read the minutes of the last meeting and Mrs. Charles Staples gave the treasurer's report. A report from Mrs. Edwin Dexter, chairman of volunteers for the hospitality shop at the hospital, told of ten members who had volunteered, and asked for others willing to serve.

Mrs. Roy Walters reported that $24.75 had been cleared at the St. Patrick's day card party.

The women again voted to assist the men in their carnival in July when Mrs. Sterling Walter and Mrs. Richard Lee were appointed in charge of games; Mrs. Eugene Emmerich and Mrs. Marcus Decker in charge of cakes.

A demonstration, open to the public, was announced for May 9 at the firehouse. Mrs. Willard Stettler, Mrs. Ross Fuller and Mrs. Richard Lee were named as an auditing committee.

Refreshments were served by the hostesses, Mrs. Omar Michaels Jr., Mrs. Chauncey Eilenberger and Mrs. Walter Hope, with the tea table decorated with forsythia and daffodils.

Align Wheels Properly To Save Tires

Spring is the time to give thought to the proper checking up on proper wheel alignment and wheel balancing of your car. This will not only eliminate excess tire wear but also prevent blowouts in the summer. To be sure that your car is in proper alignment and that the wheels are in proper balance we suggest that you stop in and see R. D. Coss, your Bear Alignment serviceman located at Bartonville, just above the intersection on the trail.

Mr. Coss who has years of experience in this field has the latest and finest equipment on the market today to insure proper adjustment and correction to wheel and frames to a fraction of an inch. These are a few timely thoughts that Mr. Coss has to say to the motorist of Monroe county.

Wheel balancing service as a means of stopping wasteful tire wear and putting an end to vibrations which tend to shorten the life of your car is recommended by all automotive manufacturers, all tire companies, all oil concerns and public safety officials.

If your car is hard to handle—if you feel shock, shimmy or jiggle—watch out! Two things are happening:

One—Good rubber is being scrapped off your tires 50% to 100% faster than normal with corresponding excess wear on the steering and front end parts.

Two—You are inviting accidents and taking unnecessary risks with your own life and the lives of all who ride with you.

Don't be a tire waster and tempt

fate besides. Bear dynamic wheel balance will absolutely stop wasteful tire wear and end costly repair bills. This machine employs a new and revolutionary principle that tests both static and dynamic wheel balance.

Your tires are valuable. You can't afford to neglect any service that will give you the greatest possible mileage from them.

See the Bear balancer in operation—watch the uncanny way it detects dangerous wheel conditions and see how smoothly the wheel whirls after corrections are made.

You'll know then why you increase tire mileage, prevent expensive repairs, and have easier safer car handling after Bear dynamic service.

Wheel balancing has become more important than ever due to the widespread use of recaps and retreads. Where the average truck tire was from six to 12 ounces out of balance, recaps and retreads may run from 20 to 30.

A little unbalance at 10 mph. would not be noticed. In going twice as fast, 20 mph, the unbalance weight has an effect that is not twice as much but four times as much. At 30 it is nine times, at 40 it is 16 times as much.

That is the reason that just a few ounces of unbalance at the tread will develop a 10 to 12-pound vibrating force at 40 mph.

If we get wheels that are six to 12 ounces out of balance, as is often the case, the vibrating force is terrific.

One—Uneven tire wear resulting in premature failure.

Two—The pounding out of grease and oils in vital front end parts, thus causing more rapid wear.

Three—Abnormal wear of wheel bearings, bushings, king-pins, tie rod ends, knee action parts and steering gear parts.

Four—Excessive body and chassis strains.

Five—Rough riding and danger at high speeds.

Six—Hard steering.

Seven—Wheel misalignment because of excessive vibration.

Eight—Increased gas consumption—decrease in average speed.

Joseph H. Andre Displays Versatile Garden Tractor With Various Attachments

Now that spring is here, the man of the house is busy outdoors cleaning up the garden and giving the grass that final cleaning before cutting.

This is where the versatile Choremaster comes into its own. This precision built one-wheel garden tractor is really a year-round labor saver as the Choremaster can be used in the spring time for cultivating, cutting grass in the summer, sharpening tools or cutting wood in the fall and snow plowing in winter time. This can all be accomplished with a variety of attachments that can easily be installed in a matter of minutes.

Joseph H. Andre, of Stroudsburg RD 2, is the representative for the Choremaster in this area. Here are some of the advantages and features of this outstanding machine.

One practical unit for all your jobs. Through precision built gear reduction, the Choremaster puts all the power of the 2 to 3 h. p. air-cooled engine into doing the job. From an economy angle the Choremaster offers small investment yielding years of dividends. Initial cost of Choremaster and attachments is amazingly low. Maintenance and gas consumption are negligible. This versatile machine is engineered and precision built by one of the industry's famous firms. The Choremaster is produced to bring you top quality.

Between the row cultivation—the one wheel feature of the Choremaster permits cultivation at any time during the growing season. Operation ease—proper weight distribution makes the Choremaster well balanced and easy to handle. Clutch and throttle on the handles provide fingertip control. Attachments—The attachments are either mounted from front or rear of the Choremaster in a matter of minutes.

utes, enabling quick change for numerous jobs. Centrifugal clutch—This accessory provides complete control of the Choremaster by the throttle, saves engine life and makes attachments easy to handle.

Some of the attachments that can be installed on your Choremaster in a matter of minutes include a sickle bar, belt reduction and gear box type. These are the mowers for heavy duty grass and weed cutting. Thirty-two inch sickle bar is driven from the tractor's high speed power take-off. Trims close to fences. Easily maneuvered in and out of corners. Three points of ground contact permits mowing over all ground contours. Gear box type with anti-friction bearings throughout bevel gear box and pitman for long life.

It also has a Seedmaster seeder for planting large area. Attaches easily to Choremaster; driven by slow power take-off. Centrifugal clutch feature controls seeds at all times; for every type of garden seed.

Hitch your present hand mower to Choremaster power and this lowest universal hitch does the trick. Merely substitute universal lawn mower hitch for the present handle, attach to Choremaster and presto! A power mower.

There is an air compressor which is attached to Choremaster power which does work in a matter of minutes, which ordinarily takes hours to do. Indispensable for the general upkeep work, painting, fumigation, disinfecting, greasing and tire pumping. Supplies three cu. ft. at 60 lbs. pressure.

Walks and drives come clean in a hurry with the "Choremaster" snow plow. Broad sweep all-steel blade cuts 24" path even in deep snow. Use plow for leveling and light grading when winter's over. Dozer blade also available in 30-inch width.

Seedmaster seeder—For planting large areas. Attaches easily to Choremaster; driven by slow power take-off. Centrifugal clutch feature controls seeds at all times; for every type of garden seed.

2-4-D weed sprayer—Insures proper weed control; treats 3/4 of an acre of lawn per hour. Entire spray unit mounted or detached in 5 to 10 minutes. Boom adjustable for spraying in high weeds. Sprays solid 110 inches wide. Change nozzles to spray garden or shrubs.

Rotary Club Marks Fourth Anniversary

Pocono Manor—The fourth anniversary dinner and dance of Mount Pocono Rotary club was held here last week with a dance in Manor hall following a banquet address by Otto Weyand, past district governor of Rotary International.

Members and their wives attended a cocktail party in The Inn's new Terrace Room.

Ken Banzhoff, president, presided. He lighted a candle given the club by former Governor Simon which is at least 50 years old. It burned for one hour during anniversary ceremonies.

Father Harry gave the invocation preceding the dinner. President Banzhoff introduced Mr. Weyand.

The past district governor's remarks centered around the four objects of Rotary.

"A stranger," he said, "is a friend you've never met."

Rotary is like building a temple. Mr. Weyand observed. The foundation of the floor is club service. The building is spread out and takes the shape of community service. The upper part is created by vocational service and the dome of the temple... with international service... has as its principal aim peace among men.

District Governor Walter Penney spoke briefly. He said his term as district governor has been a happy one and one of the greatest honors bestowed upon him in his life.

Clubs Avoid Conflict With Kiwanis Show

Several organizations have changed dates of meetings in order that their members might attend the performance of Kiwanis Fashion Frolics at East Stroudsburg State Teachers College auditorium Friday, April 26, at 8 p. m. Quite likely they recall the fun provided by the Kiwanis Kapers of a couple of years ago, which proved one of the most enjoyable shows of the season. Like the Kapers, the talent for the Fashion Frolics comes from the club personnel entirely, with many surprises in store.

The cast is busy visiting the haberdasheries and men's clothing stores trying on the outfits they will model during the various scenes of the show. This will be tied in with the story in a natural, though interesting manner.

The proceeds go to the education fund of the club. There are quite a number of men and women in the community filling positions of importance as a result of the operation of the fund.

Tickets are obtainable from club members, or John Watt, Security Trust Co.

State Funds Allocated For Road Project

Greentown — A sizable appropriation has been made for the reconstruction of routes 390 and alternate 390 in Greene township, it was learned here Friday night at a meeting of the Greene Township Civic association.

The allotment of funds by the Pennsylvania Department of Highways was announced by August Metz, Pike county representative in Harrisburg, who spoke to over 200 members of the association at its monthly meeting at the Penguin Circle restaurant.

The road in question, running from the Hemlock Grove church in Greentown to the State recreation area at Promised Land lake, has been the object of a lengthy campaign by the association, which contends that the thoroughfare is not only inadequate to handle the heavy vacation traffic but is a dangerous traffic hazard as well.

Although the appropriation is not large enough to complete the entire stretch of highway, work will begin this summer on the Greentown end, Metz said. Surveying crews are already at work on the project, he added.

Stocking of area streams and games lands and flood control along the branches of the Wallenpaupack creek were also discussed at the meeting.

Next meeting of the group is scheduled for the Penguin Circle on Tuesday, May 15.

Garbage Dumping Leads To Fines

Several persons have been apprehended for dumping garbage along the highways in Stroud township, according to Harold E. Albert, secretary-treasurer for the Stroud township supervisors.

He added that prosecutions and fines will be levied in the future.

TIME OUT—An unidentified fisherman takes time out for a brief rest during the opening day of Pennsylvania's Trout season yesterday, while his two companions continue to search for the brook beauties. The picture was taken at Stokes Mill.

Fishermen Hampered By High Creeks

Turnout for the opening day of Pennsylvania's trout fishing season was smaller than a year ago, Fish Warden Floyd Bachman reported yesterday and the catch was still smaller as compared to the same date in 1950. High streams was the main reason given for the comparatively poor turnout.

Those trying their luck on opening day numbered far less than they did a year ago, when an estimated crowd of some 7,000 people invaded the 23 streams under Bachman's supervision.

Cold weather featured the opening day of the 1950 campaign and the temperatures were also low at the early hours yesterday. High winds coupled with the high streams to make fishing anything but good yesterday, while periodic showers made it uncomfortable for the angler during the morning hours.

The full creeks hampered the angler with rough and muddy waters in many sections of the area.

During his rounds of the creeks, Bachman reported a check revealed that the greater portion of the anglers were confined to a catch ranging from two to four trout.

Artificial lures seemed to be the most popular bait during the first day but worms were also in evidence.

Although the opening day crowd was obviously smaller than a year ago, Penn Hills Lodge reported a larger turnout of fishermen and their wives than 1950—more than 50 altogether.

Most of the group was made up of members of the Teduscung Sportsmen's Association, who reportedly made good catches, despite poor conditions. The group was said to be greatly impressed with the region and expects to return again next year. Carl Huckens Jr. is president of the association.

Private clubs in the Pocono Mountains reported satisfactory catches during the opening day hours.

Among the few reports of individual catches were Richard "Dicky" Everett, who caught four, including one ten inches long, while fishing with his uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Everett, of 512 Lindbergh Ave., Stroudsburg.

Warmer temperatures, lower creeks and less wind are expected to bring the anglers out in great numbers during the coming week-end.

"With a kind weatherman we'll have a record catch of trout this season," said C. A. French, executive director of the State Fish Commission. The trout season runs through July 31.

French said 2,205,943 legal size trout have been placed in the state's streams since January. Some 45 per cent were brook trout, some 40 per cent brown trout and the rest rainbow trout. All stocked trout range from the legal limit of six inches to 20 inches.

A state law passed in the 1930's permitted Sunday fishing on state and federal property. However, many anglers were expected to wait until today before first trying their luck.

Regulations are unchanged from last year. They permit a creel

Swimming Marks Punished In AAU Women's Indoor Action

By Max B. Skelton

Houston, (AP)—Two American and National marks were established yesterday in the final events of the 1951 AAU Women's Indoor Swimming meet.

Pat Keller McCormick, Los Angeles, also became the first diver ever to score a grand slam by holding all five indoor and outdoor diving championships at the same time.

New American and National marks were set by Carol Pence, Lafayette, Ind., in the 100-yard breaststroke, and the Town Club of Chicago, in the 300-yard medley relay.

Sharon Geary, in the 200-yard free style, a new event for the national meet.

Complete Slam
Mrs. McCormick completed her grand slam by taking the three meter dive title from Mary Frances Cunningham, Lafayette, the defending champion. Mrs. McCormick had won the one meter event Friday. She will defend her three outdoor meet championships, won last year, later this summer.

The 1951 meet's team championship went to Lafayette, with 54 points, followed by the Town Club of Chicago, 35, Los Angeles, 27, Washington, D. C., 12, Foral and Portland, Ore., five.

Mary Freeman, Washington, D. C., with two first places and a third place, took the high individual point medal with 12 points during the three day meet.

Mrs. McCormick scored 149-76 points yesterday while taking the three meter dive championship from Miss Cunningham, who finished with 143.05 points.

Candidates Hold Initial Drills

Twenty candidates reported for practice during the weekend with Pocono A. C. Monroe County's entry in the Blue Mountain League. It was announced last night by Fred Hershey, general manager of the organization.

The practice sessions were started on Saturday and continued yesterday. They will continue every day after the Stroudsburg high school completes its drills.

Candidates were reportedly present from all parts of the county.

Pros Enter Tourney

New Rochelle, N. Y.—Right on the heels of Lloyd Mangrum and Henry Ransom, "Young Jack" Burke of the Shamrock hotel of Houston, Texas has checked in as the third of sixteen hand-picked stars who will participate in this year's Palm Beach Round Robin Invitation Golf tournament here at the Wykagyl Country club.

Coming off the trans-continental hike with the tournament professionals to the last event on the winter schedule at Augusta, Burke met the Palm Beach Tournament manager, Harold McSpaden, and was able to announce he was feeling fit to start a new season where he had left off.

A state law passed in the 1930's permitted Sunday fishing on state and federal property. However, many anglers were expected to wait until today before first trying their luck.

Giants Crush Indians In Final Meeting

New York, (AP)—The New York Giants wound up their spring exhibition series against the Cleveland Indians by pumeling the Tribe, 9-1, yesterday. The Giants took the series, seven games to three, with one tie.

Home runs by Third Baseman Henry Thompson and Centerfielder Bobby Thomson paced a 12-hit New York attack. They drove in seven of the nine runs, Thompson singling in addition to his three-run homer, with the outfielder tacking on a triple and single to his solo homer.

Feller Hit
All Giant runs were made at the expense of Bob Feller, who pitched the first five innings. Johnny Vander Meer, operating on a trial basis, hurled three shutout innings for the Indians.

The Giants used five hurlers—Sheldon Jones, Jack Kramer, Jim Hearn, Monte Kennedy and Dave Koslo—in final tuneups.

York Joins Youngstown

Youngstown, O., (AP)—Rudy York, former Detroit Tigers' first baseman, is the new player-coach of the Youngstown Athletics in the Mid-Atlantic League. Owner Bill Koval of the Athletics said last night he hired York in a telephone call to Daytona Beach, Fla., where York has been working at the Cleveland Indians' farm camp.

Diamond Club Meets

Scotrun—Tannersville's entry in the Pocono Mountain Baseball league discussed the problems ahead during a meeting on Friday night, here at Johnson's Diner. Plans were made for the coming campaign which opens on Sunday, May 13. Harry Werkheiser, team manager, was in charge of the meeting.

race sound, despite talk of a weak knee, his stable reported. Nothing could be found to offer a single excuse.

Wood Memorial
Had Uncle Miltie won, they would have had to draft a few to oppose him in the $40,000-added Wood Memorial coming up Saturday. Now it looks like 15 or more will turn out for the final eastern derby test. Gone are the comparisons between Uncle Miltie and Citation and Count Fleet, great three-year-olds of the past.

Conditions for the Wood Memorial call for the horses to carry 126 pounds each, same as the Derby. Sonic had only 105 in the Experimental, Uncle Miltie 126, although the weight wasn't what beat the Colorado star.

The result puts George Widener's Battleground, the 1950 two-year-old champ, back into the Wood Memorial picture. The Wood is the same route as the Experimental, a mile and one sixteenth. Battleground, second to Uncle Miltie a week ago, skipped the Experimental.

"He's still got to prove himself," said trainer Bert Mulholland of Battleground. "There's no use kidding ourselves."

Over at Belmont Park, one of the hottest topics of conversation was Hal Price Headley's powerful big colt Jumbo, beaten half a length by Sonic after setting the pace all the way. Jumbo stumbled at the start Saturday, recovered quickly, but drifted wide in the stretch run afterwards, it was discovered he had suffered a slight cut in the right front heel.

Pitcher In Critical Shape

Pittsburgh (AP)—Bill Piro, Pittsburgh Pirate pitcher, is in a critical condition from a brain ailment, Dr. Norman C. Oshenhiert reported last night.

Piro entered Presbyterian hospital Saturday on his twenty-fifth birthday. He first became ill at Knoxville, Tenn., last Tuesday.

Dr. Oshenhiert, the Buc team physician, said: "I've consulted brain specialists and we've diagnosed Piro's ailment as either encephalitis (inflammation of the brain) or meningitis (inflammation of the brain lining). His condition is critical and he's been placed in isolation."

Piro's wife arrived by plane last night from their home in Brooklyn and rushed to his bedside.

The rookie pitcher lost two games for the Pirates last year after coming up from Indianapolis of the American Association where he had an 8-3 record.

Truman To Toss First Ball

By Joe Reichler

Washington (AP)—When President Harry S. Truman pitches the first ball in Washington today League baseball season, it will mark the thirteenth opening throw by a President of the U.S.

White House chuckers have been lucky for the Senators ever since President William Taft started the custom of throwing out the first ball back in 1910 at the request of Clark Griffith owner of the Washington club.

Over the years, Washington has won 3,577 games and lost 3,972 for a .474 percentage. On the other hand, with the President on tap for the opener, the Nats have won 17 and lost 12 for a .586 percentage.

Not always has it been possible for the President to keep the opening date with Griffith. There have been a dozen substitute throwers since Vice President James Sherman relieved for Taft in 1912.

The chief executives besides Taft who have started seasons with assorted heaves includes Presidents Woodrow Wilson, Warren Harding, Calvin Coolidge, Herbert Hoover, Franklin D. Roosevelt and Truman. All were ardent baseball fans except Coolidge.

Harding was a baseball magnate in his own right. He once owned a club in Marion, Ohio and had sent Wilbur Cooper, the great Pittsburgh and Chicago lefthander, to the majors. Taft had played the outfield for Yale and was a keen student of the game. Wilson had been a football and baseball coach at Wesleyan and a gridiron advisor at Princeton. Roosevelt had managed the baseball team at Groton.

"Coolidge was the only president who didn't like baseball," Griffith once related. "He'd usually leave about the second or third inning. But his wife, Grace, she loved baseball. She used to keep score."

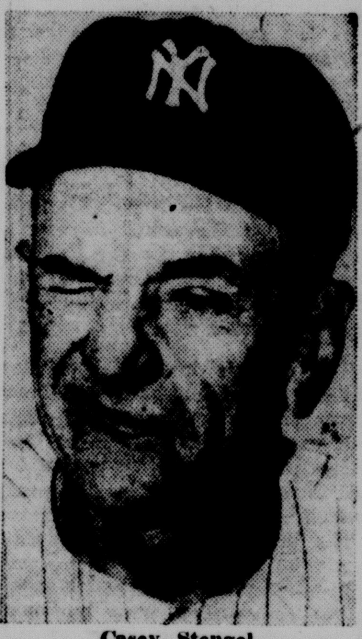

Truman is the only southpaw of the pitching presidents. In 1948 he crossed up the photographers by throwing out one ball lefthanded and a second one righthanded.

This will be the sixth appearance in the presidential box for Truman who was once a bespectacled umpire in Missouri. A great guy for comebacks, Truman will be gunning for his third straight triumph after losing his first three starts. He made his first pitch in 1946.

Mantle Promoted To Yankee Varsity—But Dodgers Explode To Defeat Stengelmans, 7-6

New York, (AP)—Mickey Mantle, sensational New York Yankee rookie, celebrated his promotion to the varsity yesterday by banging out a home run and three singles but the Brooklyn Dodgers marred the occasion by nipping the Bombers, 7-6.

Shortly before game time the Yanks said they had bought the contracts of Mantle and Pitcher Frank Shea from their Kansas City American Association team. Shea, a 28-year-old righthander, starred for the Yanks 1947 world champions, but had been bothered with a sore arm the past three years. Mantle and Jackie Jensen drove in all the Yankee runs. Jensen homered and tripled.

Jensen's two-run homer off Chris Van Cuyk broke a 3-3 tie in the seventh and Mantle's round tripper, his ninth of the spring, gave the Yankees a three-run lead in the eighth.

Pitcher Slammed
However, Max Peterson, who relieved Tom Morgan, another rookie find, will start against the Senators instead of "Lefty" Ed Lonat.

Neither Mantle nor Morgan were on the Yankees' winter roster. The 19-year-old Mantle, who led the batting "C" Western Association in last year with a .383 mark, came to camp as a shortstop. Morgan, a 21-year-old righthander, won 17 and lost 8 at Binghamton in the Eastern league.

Yankee Manager Casey Stengel also said Tom Morgan, another rookie find, will start against the Senators instead of "Lefty" Ed Lonat.

Baseball, Tennis Action Postponed

East Stroudsburg State Teachers College was forced to crowd its May athletic schedule on Saturday, when a tennis match and baseball game against Kutztown State Teachers College was postponed, due to unfavorable weather conditions. The two rivals of long standing have failed to reach a satisfactory date at the present time.

Oscar J. Liljenstein, director of athletics at the local college, announced late Saturday afternoon that he called the game off at 10:30 a. m., in order to keep Kutztown from making the trip to Normal Hill.

Liljenstein went on to say that it was raining lightly at the time he postponed the game and that the field wasn't in good condition for a ball game.

Travel
The postponement of the baseball contest automatically called off the tennis match, as most of the state teachers colleges of Pennsylvania arrange trips to the baseball and tennis teams travel together.

Although no new dates for the events has been set, it is believed they will be played sometime in May, Liljenstein stated.

The ESSTC diamond aggregation under the direction of Coach Ed Shay, plays at home tomorrow with Kings College, then stacks up against Panzer, in East Orange, on Wednesday. The tennis squad will also make the trip to Panzer on Wednesday.

On Saturday the girls' tennis team plays the Alumni, on Normal Hill, while the ESSTC track squad invades West Chester on the same day.

Following Wednesday's contest the baseball team enjoys a layoff of ten days, while the tennis squad will be inactive for two weeks.

Reds Defeat Indianapolis

Indianapolis, (AP)—The Cincinnati Reds closed out their 1951 pre-season exhibition schedule with a rousing 5-2 victory over the Indianapolis Indians here yesterday before 1,585 shivering fans.

Good Pitching
Herm Wehmeier and "Bud" Byerly set the American Association Hoosiers down with three hits and made 11 of the Indians bite the dust via strikeouts.

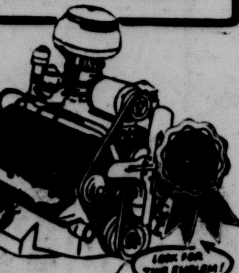

Righthander Harry Fisher blanked the Reds for the first five innings, but the National leaguers got to him for three runs in the sixth and touched Bill Rose for a consolation two runs in the ninth.

VIVIAN BLAINE AND ISABEL BIGLEY in "Guys and Dolls," New York's musical smash. Marking the first time that the stories and characters of Damon Runyon have been transplanted successfully to the stage, the show has grossed more than a million dollars in its first four months at the 46th Street theatre and has become a mecca for out-of-town visitors to New York. So overwhelming is the demand for "Guys and Dolls" that producers Feurer and Martin have placed tickets on sale for a full year in advance.

Legion Women Cancel Loan Made By Post

Newfoundland — Ladies of Unit 859, American Legion Auxiliary, entertained members of the local American Legion post at a party celebrating the post's fifth birthday anniversary in the Legion Home, Greentown, Thursday night.

As a birthday present, the women presented the Legionnaires a letter cancelling a $200 loan made by the unit a few years ago during remodeling operations at the home. Mrs. Robert Marsh, president of the auxiliary, presented the gift to Don Walter, commander of the post, at a dinner which followed the semi-monthly meeting of the post.

SPCA Invites Residents To Save Paper For Shelter Fund

Residents of Monroe county who are saving paper, magazines and rags for the shelter committee of Monroe County Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals are asked to call Stroudsburg 323 and collections will be made promptly by members.

Funds derived from paper drives and designated shelter fund donations will be utilized to establish an SPCA-operated animal shelter for the county.

Officials of the society and members of the committee said yesterday it will take a great deal of effort and cooperation from everybody in the region to maintain the paper-drive financing project.

Need for the shelter is increasing every day, they said. This county is one of a very few which does not provide animal shelter quarters for protection of pets pending the time they are adopted in new homes, or returned after straying from their old homes.

Officers emphasized the SPCA

works for the benefit of the entire county by placing dogs and other animals in proper homes and by eliminating ownerless strays from destroying property.

The first commercial oil well was drilled in the oil-rich Lake Maracaibo region of Venezuela in 1913 but it was 1923 before large-scale production began.
